FOREWORD

DURING the war, the University of Cincinnati assumed a military aspect which was mirrored in the Annuals of those years. It is our privilege to chronicle the University life of the first year since the signing of the armistice. With us, as with the world at large, it has been a period of reconstruction. The Cincinnatian of 1920 attempts to reflect the kaleidoscopic changes of two semesters, and to preserve, in permanent form, visions of student days, and memories of college friends.

McMicken Hall

*"Of wealth and station some may boast,
Of wide renown from coast to coast;
None nobler teachings did instill,
Than old McMicken on the hill."*

Van Wormer Library

*"O, I see the crescent promise of my spirit hath not set.
Ancient founts of inspiration well through all my fancy yet."
—Tennyson*

Beecher Hall

*"So that she thought, 'And who shall gaze upon
My palace with unblinded eyes,
While this great bow shall waver in the sun,
And that sweet incense rise?'"*

—Tennyson.

Museum Building

*"I hold you here, root and all, in my hand,
Little flower—but if I could understand
What you are, root and all, and all in all,
I should know what God and man is."*

—Tennyson

Chemistry Building

"Let us remember, please, that the search for the constitution of the world is one of the greatest and noblest problems presented by nature."

—Galileo

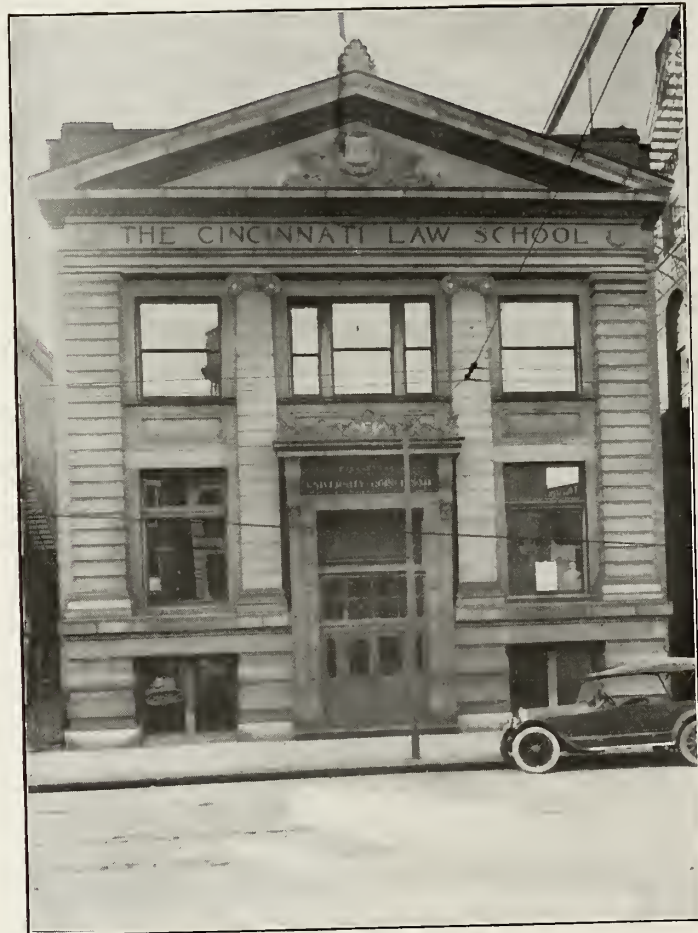

Engineering College

"Education is the instruction of the intellect in the laws of Nature, under which name I include not merely things and their forces, but men and their ways."

—Huxley

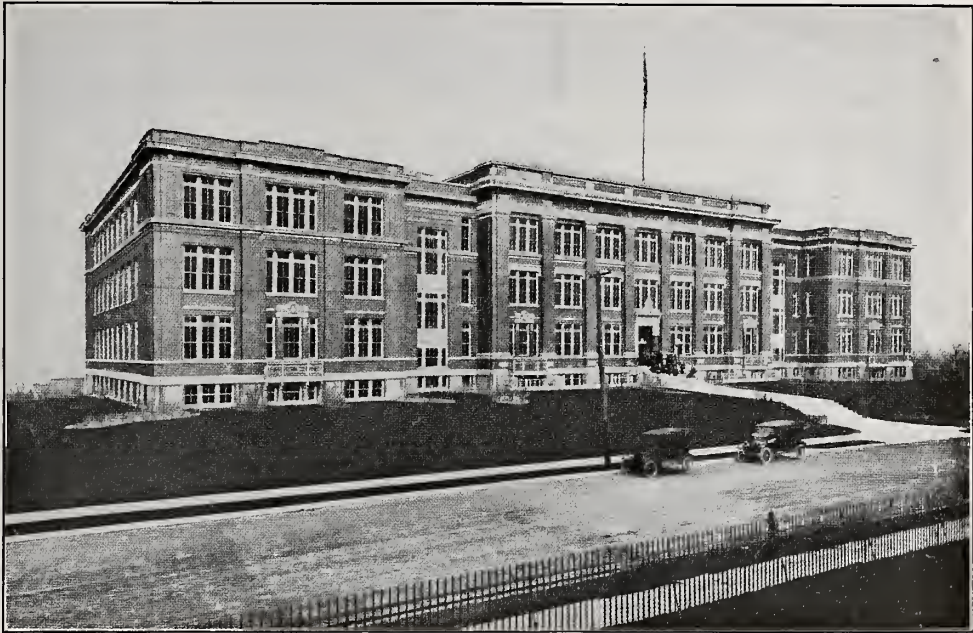

Law College

"Lex est enactio justa iubens honesta et prohibens contraria"

Medical College

*"If my body come from brutes, tho' somewhat finer than their own,
I am heir, and this my kingdom. Shall the royal voice be mute?
No, but if the rebel subject seek to drag me from the throne,
Hold the sceptre, Human Soul, and rule thy province of the brute."*

—Tennyson

Gymnasium

"What a piece of work is man! How noble in reason! how infinite in faculty! in form and moving how express and admirable! in action how like an angel! in apprehension how like a god! the beauty of the world! the paragon of animals!"

—Shakespeare

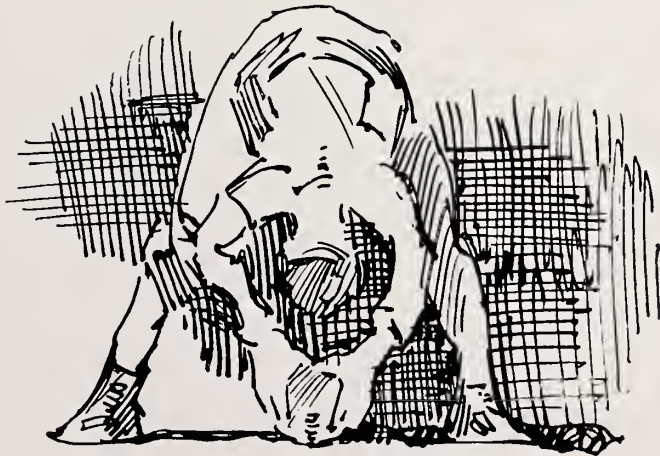

Carson Field

*"Where throngs of knights and barons bold,
In weeds of peace high triumphs hold,
With store of ladies, whose bright eyes
Rain influence, and judge the prize.*

—Milton

Burnet Woods

*"And when the sun begins to fling
His flaring beams, me, Goddess, bring
To arched walks of twilight groves,
And shadows broken."* —Milton

History

IN 1807, when Cincinnati was but a village of log-cabins, the state legislature of Ohio authorized a lottery to obtain endowment for an educational institution. Quaint morality, indeed! Yet this act, though without any lasting result, is a tribute to the spirit of the pioneers who sought to provide means of education at a time when merely to live required almost the full power of man's brawn and brain. In 1809, the schoolhouse that was to have sheltered the first Cincinnati University was blown down by a windstorm. Pathetic are the failures of these early days—shattered dreams of earnest, altruistic men.

A more successful effort to "carry on" was made in 1814, when a number of Cincinnati men established, on the site of the present Mercantile Library Building, the Cincinnati Lancaster Seminary which became, in 1819, the Cincinnati College. It was reorganized in 1834-5, departments of medicine and law were established, and the Cincinnati Law School, founded in 1833, was affiliated. Unfortunately, the building burned in 1845, and the department of law alone survived.

The history of the present University of Cincinnati is remarkable for its pioneer movements in education. The Cincinnati Law School, which became, about eighteen years ago, a college of the University, was founded at a time when there were but three others in the United States—Harvard, Yale, and the University of Virginia. The present college of medicine of the University was, until its affiliation in 1896, the Medical College of Ohio—the oldest institution for medical education west of the Allegheny Mountains. Again it was public-spirited Cincinnatians who first aroused, in this country, popular interest in astronomy. The Cincinnati Observatory, which became a part of the University in 1872, was a pioneer in astronomical work in the United States and the progenitor of the National Weather Bureau. The original site was on Mt. Adams, where, on November 9th, 1843, the corner-stone of the building was laid by Ex-President John Quincy Adams, then seventy-seven years of age.

Strangely enough, not until 1870 did the municipal university that was to rise, a lofty structure builded on these older institutions as massive corner-stones, have its birth. Among the many men who have helped to make this ideal of educational democracy a reality, there is one who will be especially revered, "Charles McMicken, country lad of Pennsylvania, adventurer setting out on horseback to the far West, pioneer in the tiny village of Cincinnati in 1803, his horse, saddle, and bridle constituting his entire worldly wealth, flat-boat trader on the Ohio, merchant in Louisiana, prominent citizen of Cincinnati, philanthropist—such is a kaleidoscopic biography of the founder of the University of Cincinnati." That his long-cherished desire "to found an institution where white boys and girls might be taught not only a knowledge of their duties to their Creator and their fellow-men, but also receive the benefit of a sound, thorough, and practical English education"—that this "wish of his heart" might be wrought into a reality, Charles McMicken gave the City of Cincinnati, by will, for the founding and maintenance of a college, most of his estate valued at $1,000,000. As a result of the litigation which ensued, nearly half of the estate was lost to the city by a decision of the Supreme Court of Louisiana. The revenue derived from the remainder was for ten years applied to improve the estate.

When, in 1870, the State of Ohio passed an act to "enable cities of the first class to aid and promote education," Cincinnati incorporated the University. In 1873, students were received for instruction by teachers of Woodward High School. The following year classes were held by the Academic department, now McMicken College of Liberal Arts, in a school building on Franklin street. The first University building was that upon the site of the McMicken homestead on Clifton avenue.

New departments have been created and older institutions affiliated so that the University of Cincinnati now includes McMicken College of Liberal Arts, the Observatory, the College of Engineering, the College of Medicine, the Department of Clinical Medicine, the College of Nursing and Health, the College of Law, the College for Teachers, and the Graduate School, besides being in affiliation with other institutions such as the Cincinnati Kindergarten Training School and the Hebrew Union College.

Such an expansion has, of course, necessitated a corresponding material growth. In 1889, the city provided a forty-three acre campus comprising the southern end of Burnet Woods Park, and, in 1893, furnished funds for the erection of the present McMicken Hall to which the University was moved in 1895. The erection of imposing buildings to meet the ever-growing needs of the University has been greatly facilitated by the generosity of altruistic Cincinnatians. The donations of Henry Hanna and Briggs Cunningham made possible the erection of the two halls which bear the donors' names. Van Wormer Library, another gift, was begun in 1901. Ten years later, the Engineering Building, the Gymnasium, and the Power Plant were completed. A bond issue made possible the building of a stadium on Carson Field. The new Medical College was built near the City Hospital, and, in 1916, the Chemistry Building and the Woman's Building were completed. Mrs. Obed J. Wilson, a Cincinnati woman, gave in 1918 funds to provide for the erection of a much-needed Convocation Hall, to be located at the northwest corner of the campus.

One chapter of the history of the University which must remain forever unwritten is the service of that institution during the recent war. For though it is possible to compile statistics of those in service and to describe the activities of those whose lot it was to "keep the home fires burning," yet must the real service ever remain incommensurable, intangible, unknown. It is true now, as it was at Gettysburg, that nothing can be done to consecrate the memory of those who "gave the last full measure of devotion." But it is most fitting that the Student Memorial Dormitory, which is to be erected, should be the outgrowth of the efforts of the Senior Class of 1919, some of whose classmates are numbered among the dead. In these "Heroic Dead" Alma Mater sees the realization of what is, and must ever be, her highest aim—the molding of men so that, when the call comes, be what it may, they shall not fail.

Cincinnatus Society

THE Society of the Cincinnati was founded at the University of Cincinnati in 1917. The purpose of the organization is to provide a nucleus for a strong alumnal association by selecting from the Senior Class each year, those students who have been most active in college activities during their four years at the University and who will therefore be earnest and enthusiastic workers for their Alma Mater as members of this alumnal organization. The following students have, because of their loyalty to the University, been selected to membership in the Society of the Cincinnati:

Student Council

STUDENT COUNCIL is the student governing body of the University, its duty being "to make and administer such laws as it shall deem necessary for the welfare of the student body." It supersedes the University Club of former years. The Council consists of the four Class Presidents, the Vice-Presidents of the two upper classes, and twenty other representatives, elected as follows: eight by the Seniors, six by the Juniors, four by the Sophomores, and two by the Freshmen.

The Executive Board, which is one of the standing committees, consists of the Senior Class President and the Vice-President, and two Seniors, the Junior Class President and Vice-President and one Junior, and the Presidents of the Sophomore and Freshman Classes. At least three members of the Board must be women. The Board meets once a week, its duties being to act for the Council when immediate action is necessary, to act as an intermediary between the faculty and students, and to prepare important matters for presentation at the monthly meetings of the Council.

The officers and standing committees are elected from the Council members at the first meeting in the year, which is usually in October. The Calendar Committee comprises three members. Its duties are to arrange and schedule the dates of all University functions. The confusion of dates has been overcome this year by the adoption of a written form system. The Entertainment Committee and the Auditing Committee are also composed of two members and a chairman. The duties of the Entertainment Committee are to arrange for the University entertainments, its main task always being Student Council tea dances and the Varsity Vodvil. The Auditing Committee directs and audits the financial affairs of the various organizations and activities of the University.

Co-operative Bookstore

THE University Co-operative Society is organized for the purpose of affording the students the opportunity of buying their books and supplies at cost.

Membership is obtained by buying a stamp book for five cents. A stamp is given with every ten-cent purchase and at the close of the college year dividends are declared to members in proportion to the profits of the Society.

Committees

The only organization to which all University women are eligible, and hence the most inclusive and representative, is the Woman's League. Regular students, special students, graduates and faculty members may all become members of the League.

As expressed in the constitution: "The object of Woman's League shall be to regulate all matters pertaining to the student life of its members which do not fall under the jurisdiction of the Faculty; to further in every way the spirit of unity among the women of the University; to increase their sense of responsibility toward each other, and to be a medium by which the social standards at the University can be made and kept high."

This year Woman's League brought Miss Helen Bennett, an expert on vocations for college women, to the University. Her inspiring talks, and excellent advice, influenced many girls in deciding what their future career is to be.

Her coming stimulated interest in a permanent occupational bureau at the University, which the alumnae are planning to establish with the co-operation of the students. This bureau will mean a great deal to all University women who are planning to go into active business life, and deserves staunch support.

Junior Advisors

THERE were no scared Freshmen timidly waiting to register this year. Now there is a system that makes it possible to assort the whole influx of Freshmen rapidly, according to their choices of study, to the satisfaction of the faculty, and to the credit of the Junior Advisors whose lucid explanation of the curriculum of the University did the work.

But registration was only the beginning. Each adviser adopted six or seven newcomers to guide them through the mazes of their Freshman year. The reception given in honor of the Freshmen was their "coming out" party. Here they became acquainted with the distinguished personages of the student body, learned the meaning of the necessary terms: "Dean, Commons, cut, blue book, Hanna, George," and rapidly acquired the pep of the upper classmen.

The Junior Advisory Committee had its first real trial this year, and it has well accomplished its purpose. While the year was yet young, the Freshmen were made to feel at home in the strange college atmosphere. They were urged to take part in student activities; attendance at social affairs and maintenance of good scholarship was constantly encouraged. In fact, the Junior Advisors made the class of 1923 feel itself a part of the University from the first day of the school year.

Varsity Freshmen are required by order of the Most Exalted Tribunal, the Committee of Vigilance, to submit to their impenetrable craniums for memorization, the following edicts, which have been carefully compiled by their superiors for their information and guidance, because of their tenderness in years and deficiency in knowledge.

It is further ordered by the Committee of Vigilance that Freshmen be prepared at all times to recite any or all of their orders at the instance and request of an esteemed member of the Committee of Vigilance, and should a neophyte's ignorance be so abominable as to preclude his doing so satisfactorily, or should he be found guilty of any infraction of an order, either in letter or in spirit, he shall be charged with a felonious crime against the peace and quiet of our beloved Alma Mater, and shall be punished by death or such other penalty as the High Tribunal shall direct.

卐 卐 卐

My Freshmen Orders Are:

1. -To define myself as a grossly insignificant, precocious, infantile, helpless, unsophisticated being, possessed of a verdant appearance, and found invariably in places wherein I impede the traffic of my superiors.
2. To bedeck my skull with the regalia provided by my superiors, and to wear it at all times while within the limits of the campus.
3. To talk to no woman, except in line of duty.
4. To refrain from making ingress and egress from Varsity buildings by main entrances.
5. To attend all athletic games, pow-wows, convocations and other important meetings.
6. To commit no verbosity in the library, and in case of riot or disorder to summon a member of the Committee of Vigilance.
7. To devour chow only at side tables in the mess hall, and to observe strictly at all times polite rules of etiquette.
8. To use tobacco only in corncob receptacles.
9. To avoid depositing myself on stairways and on the lions in front of McMicken, and congregating in entrance-ways, corridors and other places where my presence is obnoxious to my superiors.
10. To keep my person free from cheap high-school insignia.
11. To familiarize myself with Varsity songs and yells.
12. To learn to be a loyal Varsity booster, endeavoring at all times to uphold and preserve the precedents and high ideals which have been established at Varsity by those who came before me.

WOMEN'S VIGILANCE COMMITTEE

Proclamation To the Freshmanovitch Women

To the Freshmanovitch Contingent of the Active Student Body and to all Groups of Workmen's and Loafers' Delegates from the First Year Class, and to the Proletariat of U. C.:

By this proclamation we inform the inhabitants that from today, September 18, 1919, the power of government is confided to the supreme direction of the Woman's Vigilance Committee.

The Committee considers this to be the program of the new authority:

1. The Committee, in making the present declaration, calls upon all the people to preserve calm and order, and to accept these edicts like good sportoffs, in order to maintain a spirit of good funsky.
2. The Committee calls upon all Freshmenovitch to wear upon their right shoulderoff, in a conspicuous positionsky, the verdant buttonshovitch prescribed by the present Soviet.
3. The Special Military Committee on Riots and Disorder will not permit Freshmenovitch to enter or leave any building on the campus by the front doorikoff.
4. Freshmenovitch who at lunchtimeovitch do not seat themselves immediately and unobtrusively at side tables will be arrested as rebels.
5. The Committee proclaims that Freshmenovitch failing to discard their hatskys upon entering a class room will be subject to the penalty of decapitation or worse; and that the same penalty will be inflicted upon Freshmenovitch caught disguising their hairskys with the Elsie Fergusonsky Roll.
6. Neglect on the part of the rank-and-file-off of Freshmenovitch to give precedence to upperclasswomen and Sophomoreskies before all mirrors in all primp-hallovitches of the University is equivalent to a great crime against the Committee.
7. Refusal by a Freshmanovitch to surrender her seatsky on a carovitch to an upper classwoman or a Sophomoresky will be punished by all the strength of the law, said law to be carried out by the Special Committee in charge of Uprisings.
8. Freshmenovitch must attend all convocations and ballgamesokoff, and occupy front-seatskies. The prescribed order of seating must be strictly adhered to in all collegeatskies of the University.
9. All communications, be it written or verbal, with the male element must be rigidly abjured. In this matter the Committee will use persuasion, but where this fails, they must oppose any conversational or epistolary attempt by forcekoff and without mercykoff.
10. The Committee issues warning that every Freshmanovitch from this day forth must hold herself prepared and in readiness to undergo at any time an examkin on the traditions of the University, to include all songs, yells, famous personages and localities, and current scandalovitch.

FRESHMENOVITCH! For peace, for bread, for life, and for the love of mikesky!

THE Y. M. C. A. started the year with the determination to become a factor in University life. Mr. Fred Hoehler, Executive Secretary, was in charge of the work and it is to him that the credit for a successful year is due. The work was organized on a comprehensive plan, including separate departments for Campus Service, Social, Religious Meetings, Gospel Teams, Foreign Students, Finance, and Bible Study. The cabinet members received special instructions in these various departments at the Student Conference at Lake Geneva, and were placed as heads of the departments. The "Hut" was in charge of Mr. Aubrey Williams, Assistant Executive Secretary, and furnished a cheerful home throughout the winter months, while the Thursday noon luncheons were inspiring and conducive to splendid fellowship.

Realizing the importance of "Y" conferences, the Association sent delegates to four important meetings. Thirteen men attended the Student Training Conference at Lake Geneva; four went to the State Conference at Springfield; five to the International Convention at Detroit; and six men represented the local branch at the Student Volunteer Convention at Des Moines, Iowa. These delegates have been leaders in the work at the University and throughout the city, and have been called upon to speak at a number of churches.

The Des Moines Conference

THE Eighth International Student Volunteer Convention was held at Des Moines during the Christmas holidays. The delegates, numbering seven thousand five hundred students, came from forty nations. The Student Volunteer movement seeks to stimulate college men and women to a more active Christian life and to secure recruits for foreign missionary work.

The purpose of the convention was embodied in its watchword, "The Evangelization of the World in This Generation." The world today needs and welcomes applied Christianity as never before and is turning to the students of the United States for Christian leadership. Service, and the making not of a living but of a life, was the challenge set forth.

As follow-up work, the University of Cincinnati delegates have met weekly for prayer and study and have spoken at various churches and meetings throughout the city.

The Geneva Club

THE Lake Geneva Summer Conference is one of the finest things the Y. M. C. A. has to offer college men. Here are gathered together men from colleges and universities of the Middle West. Good fellowship and Christian spirit reign supreme. On June 19, 1919, over one thousand men were in attendance; of this number Ohio had one hundred and Cincinnati thirteen.

The Geneva Club has been organized this year to keep together the Varsity men who attended the camp last summer. The spirit of the camp will thus be continued and as the time for registration at the camp arrives, new men will be added to the membership list.

The Eaglesmere Conference

THE height of ambition of College Y W girls all over the country is to attend a summer conference. There are eight camps in as many natural beauty spots, whither college girls flock for a period of ten days. The girls from Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania come together every year at Eaglesmere, Pennsylvania, in the heart of the Alleghenies. Picture a summer resort more than two thousand feet above sea level, on a mountain top, in a primeval pine forest; then people it with four hundred college girls, singing, boating, swimming, canoeing, and hiking along rhododendron-bordered trails! This is Eaglesmere.

The three aspects of life, mental, physical and spiritual, for which Y W stands, are nurtured here. The daily program includes early morning chapel, in an open air auditorium shaded by the pines, a Bible class, a World-Fellowship class, a quiet hour, and periods for recreation.

In the evening pageants are held, or addresses are delivered by some of the most prominent men of the country. The Bible and World-Fellowship classes are led by people of wide experience and deep insight into the truths of life. To participate in the discussions is an education in itself.

For the sport lovers, there are many types of intercollegiate battles. There are swimming races, diving contests, tennis and golf tournaments and boat races. The victors are received with great acclamation by their own college delegation and by the whole camp.

At Eaglesmere in 1919, Cincinnati's prowess in water sports was nobly upheld by Winifred Zettel, who came out first in the boat race, giving Cincinnati third place in the final score.

Eaglesmere is unexcelled in the opportunity it offers for pure, wholesome pleasure, jolly friendships and spiritual interest and awakening.

THE AMEX SOCIETY was organized at University of Cincinnati in January, 1920, for the purpose of promulgating the close and united comradeship of the University men who served with the Allied Armies in Expeditionary Service during the Great War, and of vigorously opposing and combatting such factions and such political or economic tendencies as may in any way seek to injure, demoralize or destroy the high standards, morals or ideals of true Americanism.

History Club

PERHAPS as a reaction to the study of World Politics, which has been the subject of discussions at the History Club meetings for the last few years, the club this year turned its attention to matters of local interest. It was the history of Cincinnati and her important institutions which was considered at the monthly meetings. Because the subject was one of local interest, the members were particularly enthusiastic and keen, and meetings were never closed without a lively discussion and stories of the good old days of the Queen City of the West.

La Cercle Francais

TWICE each month, once for tea and once for luncheon, Le Cercle Francais meets for the purpose of furthering interest in the French language, promoting good fellowship, and enticing its member to "parler francais." Its members have of late been increased by the enrollment of the visiting students from France, who are taking an active part in the society.

The Debate Council

THE Debate Council was organized in the fall of the year 1918. The purpose and object of the Debate Council are to regulate all affairs in regard to debating in the University.

The Debate Council is composed of three members of the Faculty, three students and an Alumnus.

Last year the Council ably conducted the annual Miami Debate, which was won by Cincinnati. This year it has scheduled debates with Miami, Kentucky State, Pittsburgh and Western Reserve.

The members of this year's Debate Council are:

CHEMISTS CLUB

THE Chemists' Club is one of the oldest clubs in the University and the story of its development from a group of five or six students who first met together in the interests of chemistry in 1906 is well known. It is now an active, growing organization, with a monthly attendance of fifty or sixty students, who assemble regularly for the enjoyment of addresses, music, dancing and supper. With a body of chemistry students larger than in any previous year from which to draw its membership, the Chemists' Club anticipates a future of unprecedented activities in the life of the University.

The Pre-Medic Club

THE Pre-Medic Club was organized in the fall of 1916 by the Sophomore Pre-Medics, for the purpose of cultivating medical ideals and atmosphere among Pre-Medical students. With the aid of the late Dr. C. R. Holmes, then dean of the Medical College, and Dr. Frank Cross, then vice-dean, the Pre-Medic Club was organized, and a club room in the basement of McMicken Hall was secured and furnished.

The opening of this room was celebrated by a banquet, given by Dr. Holmes to both Medical and Pre-Medical students, at which several speakers told of the attempts to establish Pre-Medic Clubs in other colleges. After this auspicious beginning, the club has become a most successful organization.

WITH the organization of the School of Household Arts into the Department of Home Economics of the College for Teachers, the old Household Arts Club becomes the Home Economics Club, to which every girl in the department is eligible to membership.

The purpose of the Club is to extend interest in the Home Economics Department and to promote more cordial friendships among the girls of the department. Regular meetings are held each month, which afford opportunity for business, social and educational development.

The Home Economics Department occupies the second and third floors of the Woman's Building, as well as the Practice House at 358 Ludlow avenue, Clifton. It has splendidly equipped laboratories, class rooms and offices for conducting its work—that of training girls to be teachers, dieticians, institutional managers and vocational home-makers.

Co-op Club

— BERTON —

THE Co-op Club was founded soon after the Co-operative Engineering course for the purpose of promoting a unified spirit and a fraternal feeling among all Co-ops. Meetings are held in the Co-op Club room and a dance and stag banquet are given annually, which are the biggest events of every engineer's calendar.

BRAUNE CIVILS

THE Braune Civil Engineering Society, founded October 24, 1914, promotes a closer relationship between the engineering students, and affords an opportunity for the presentation of papers and discussions of civil engineering subjects and problems.

Regular meetings are held weekly, at which members present papers on some phase of Co-op work which they have done. The talks are followed by lively and interesting discussions. The three best papers presented throughout the year are selected by the civil engineering faculty and three valuable prizes are awarded.

The University of Cincinnati Student Branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers

THROUGH the interest of the National Society of A. S. M. E. there have been established in every Engineering College of high rating in the country a Student Branch of the A. S. M. E. The organization has for its objects the promotion of the study of the arts and sciences connected with engineering and a spirit of good fellowship among its members.

The program carried on throughout the year consisted of weekly meetings at which papers were presented by one of the members. Monthly evening meetings were held, at which prominent local engineers were the speakers.

Membership consists mainly of mechanical engineering students. Graduate members may become Junior members of the national organization for two years, after which they are eligible to full membership in the National Society of A. S. M. E.

A. I. E. E.—First Section

A. I. E. E.—Second Section

THE Student Branch of the A. I. E. E. was founded at the University in the fall of 1912. Since that time it has continued to progress under the zealous guidance of Professor Hoffman.

At each meeting, a lecture is given by some prominent engineer on problems of the day, or a paper is read by a student on topics of interest.

For the best student paper given during the year a prize of $10 is given by Professor Hoffman, and for the second best paper a prize of $2 by the English Department.

The object of the branch is to keep the students in touch with the advancement of their chosen professions, to promote engineering fellowship, and, lastly, to lead to affiliation with the national body in their Senior year.

Men's Interfraternity Association

THE Men's Interfraternity Association, formerly known as the Pan-Hellenic, was organized during the years 1912-1913. The Council of the Association consists of two members from each of the chapters of the national fraternities of the University. Business meetings are held once a month, each chapter in turn acting as host.

The fundamental purposes of this organization are to furnish a medium of relationship between the various fraternities, to govern the rushing and pledging of men, and to promote college activities and to elevate the scholastic standing of fraternity men.

Sigma Sigma

Colors—White, Gold and Black

SIGMA SIGMA, the society of upper-classmen of the University of Cincinnati, was founded in the year 1898. Its purpose is to foster college spirit, and to enhance the glory of the University of Cincinnati in the college world. The members are chosen on their merits alone and to the disregard of race, creed or fraternity affiliation. Sigma Sigma is strictly a local society, and will remain so, as its most important function—that of teaching loyalty to the University of Cincinnati—can best be performed as a local organization.

The Ancient and Accepted Loyal Order of the Ulex

Founded—Possibly

Colors—Undoubtedly

OUT of the evanescent mists of the empyrean, wafted on billowy zephyrs, leaping the incomparable abyss to gash itself finally against a fairy softness. the icy kisses come, lurching with each caress, loitering with the vagrant winds. “Ah-ha, what hast thou there?” And incommunicably mournful sougled the answer, “Razberrahs.” And so, limned against the incarnadined nebulae, we fade and are gone, austerely permeated with the myrrhy fragrance, aspiring ever, failing never. Such is our mission.

The "C" Club

REALIZING the need of a closer bond between the athletes of the past and those of the present, and feeling that a good deal of good could be derived from an organization whose sole thought and purpose was the betterment of athletics at the University of Cincinnati, the "C" Club was formed.

It is composed of men who have won their letter while in college; men who know what it is to carry the burdens of their University's athletics; men who know how to fight for their Alma Mater, and who are desirous of carrying that fight on any time and any place where it will do the athletics at U. C. any good.

It aims to make the city of Cincinnati and its people appreciate their University, to support its athletics, and to send their sons and daughters to Cincinnati.

On the object, the constitution reads:

ARTICLE II.—OBJECT

Sec. 1. To promote a high standard and general interest in athletics in the University of Cincinnati.

Sec. 2. To bring together as a working body men who have been actively associated with athletics and who are thus qualified to have a general oversight and act for the best interests of University athletics.

Sec. 3. To develop all the athletic ability at the University and to get in closer touch with the preparatory schools and other sources of new material.

It was organized by the letter men still active in the University during the spring season of 1916. A constitution was drawn up and Dr. Arch Carson elected the first president.

A Student's Obligation

THE war has marked a very definite turning point in health activity and there lies before us a period of reconstruction and reorganization in the methods of health administration. The dominant thoughts underlying this readjustment are that both military and industrial power are dependent upon man power, the strength and efficiency of which is determined by the health of the individual.

The years ahead will make demands no less severe on the nation's manhood than have been made during the last two or three years. Clear brains, keen intelligence and physical endurance will be required for the manifold duties that face us. Keeping fit and prepared for America's task is the present obligation on every man and woman in this University.

The demands on a student's time are many and it is hard for him to choose the things that will be of greatest value in his preparation for life. Part of the time should be spent with books. The training that comes from taking part in other activities of the University is of equal importance, however. Of these experiences, none is more vital than the participation in wholesome physical activity and the development of habits which are consonant with the best teachings of hygiene. The biological, mental, social and moral benefits of play and athletic games are much needed by both men and women. The creation of a love for physical activity and the development of health habits are absolutely essential to the enjoyment of the finest sense of all, that of well-being, which can come only from exercise and fine living.

DR. MORRISON.

Common Interest Demands Support of Intercollegiate Athletics

GREATER evidence is at hand this winter that intercollegiate athletics are serving their highest aims at the University. There is a spirit of unity and loyalty among students, faculty and alumni that has never appeared before. If we can make our athletics bring us together as a body frequently and thereby teach us loyalty to Varsity and to each other and finally a patriotism that some of us have never thought of, then our athletics are doing a thing of more value than any other one thing here.

Our teams will increase in efficiency in proportion as we lend our presence and our good wishes. The teams will fight harder as they know they are appreciated. Witness the effect of the rooting at the basketball games. It is eminently the duty of every Varsity man to see every home game. Until we reach the stage where we actually feel we must sacrifice a party or a show now and then to watch the team play, we are not giving the team our best support.

The fine co-operation now existing between the faculty and the athletic department is due to the fact that at last the department of athletics is doing part of the co-operating. Members of teams are taking the right attitude toward instructors and they have found that the most willing souls in the world when it comes to meeting them half way are these same instructors. What has been said for the students about attendance at the games is also true of faculty members. No professor is such in the true sense unless he can interest himself in the things that most interest the students. Happily, our faculty, from the president down, can show as high a percentage of attendance as the students.

The Football Review

THE football season ended this year with a bang. The team, captained by Bob Stack, started off with a rush, defeating Wilmington 34 to 0 on Carson Field. A trip to Columbus netted a defeat at the hands of Ohio State, but the experience obtained proved invaluable throughout the season. The game was played in a sea of mud. Bob Sarvis played rings around his all-Western opponents, thereby cinching a place on the All-Ohio team.

The next game was played on a muddy home field, Kenyon being the goats, losing 18 to 0. Along came Dennison and after a nip and tuck battle pulled a 9 to 2 victory over on Varsity. Dan Freis' consistent playing stood out well.

The game (or, rather, fancy diving contest) with Wittenberg was a draw, neither side scoring. With over six inches of muddy water on the field the game turned into a Charity Ball, each side vying with the other in the number of donations of the ball.

Kentucky State next blew into town with words of victory dropping from their urban tongues, but they went home much the wiser. Varsity, in the prettiest game of the season, turned in a victory in the last minute of play, 7 to 0. Buck Wenzel's perfect pass to Hopkins and his final plunge over the line doing the trick.

Tennessee, opposed by a much bruised and unconditioned team, due to the previous week's game and an all-night train ride, won from Varsity 33 to 12. Babe Frey came into his own, scoring the 12 points unaided on two beautiful open field runs.

The final game was with Miami on Thanksgiving Day. Although Varsity outplayed them, poor punting was the real cause of the defeat, Miami scoring on two blocked kicks near their goal line.

The University has finally awakened to its latent possibilities and is due to leap out of leash, setting the football world agog, under Coach Chambers' leadership.

BOB STACK

Captain Stack, the wild Irishman, was the right man to lead the snappiest team that ever represented Varsity. When it came to pep and fight no one on the team could touch the red-headed Medic. He was one of the fastest and most slippery men on the squad, a sure ground gainer and a good tackler. We regret that he has played his last game for old U. C.

DAN FREIS

"All hail, Dan," All-State Dan, Captain-elect of 1920, was one of the best tackles in the State and the best defensive player on the team. Dan tore through the enemy defense, throwing them for losses time after time. He is a hard worker, a very capable leader, and undoubtedly will be one of the big stars next year.

BOB SARVIS

Bob, our second All-State man, although outweighed in every game, played rings around his every opponent. His continual pep and fight, combined with wonderful football ability, made him a valuable asset to the team. When you consider there is only one center on the team to be chosen All-State—well, Bob's there.

PHIL MEYERS

Phil knows football from the ground up, and has two more years to battle for old U. C. We fully expect to find him Captain on the All-Ohio team before he finishes his football career.

CARL FREY

"Babe," admittedly one of the best open field runners in the State, has had only one dry field on which to demonstrate his ability. Ask the Tennessee rooters. Babe is game to the core and his enthusiasm and pep made him a favorite with his team mates and the rooters.

FOSTER HOPKINS

"Fos" showed his Varsity spirit by coming to the aid of the team when things looked darkest, even though it necessitated great sacrifice on his part. Through excellent work he was largely responsible for the victory over Kentucky State. He was one of the most consistent ground gainers on the team.

CHIC PULLEN

"Chic" was crippled most of the season, being forced to play when he could under a heavy handicap. His persistence was rewarded by the coveted "C." This is his first year on Varsity, having come from Kentucky State as the speediest man on the squad. Omitting injury, he undoubtedly will be a valuable man next year.

SAM SELTZ

"Sam" seems to be one of the fixtures of the team, holding down the same position for two years. He was one of the hardest fighting men on the squad, and although usually outweighed by his opponents, consistently outplayed them. The much-touted newcomers will have a hard job dislodging him next year.

ALFRED WENZEL

"Buck" was the steady support upon whom the team could ever depend, whether on the defense or when carrying the ball. Buck was considered the best defensive fullback in the State. His place will be hard to fill next year.

GEORGE EILERS

Varsity's versatile punter filled the bill at both guard and end and was called behind the line to do the kicking. This is George's second year on Varsity and with another year under Coach Chambers he should be able to stay with the best of them.

PERCY FITZGERALD

"Poicy" had clear sailing towards the All-Ohio, had he but made an honest effort. He was the hardest man to tackle on the squad, while a sure tackler himself. His first name is mere camouflage. It should have been Bill or Mike.

JAMES NIPPERT

Jimmy was the ever-reliable second defense at center. This was Jim's first year out for Varsity, but he was a perfect passer, and with the help of a little more beef would make a corking, scrappy man at center.

RAY HUCKE

Ray deserves a great deal of credit for sticking to football. Handicapped for two years by a bad shoulder, he has always given Varsity his best efforts. Few indeed were the plays that walked over Ray, his defensive work being a feature of each game.

WILLIAM HEINOLD

Bill got more fight out of the team than any other quarterback. He showed great ability in eluding tacklers and returned many punts with clever running. He is red-headed, and rightly so if red hair and fight go hand in hand.

CHARLES CONSTABLE

Charley is one of those big, steady fellows who was always there when you wanted him. He came to U. C. without a knowledge of football, but in two years he has mastered the game and earned a "C." With another year's experience he should develop into an exceptional lineman.

ELLWOOD HAAS

Snowflake, the biggest man on the squad, was like the famous "Off again, on again, gone again, Finnegan," but he certainly was on the week before the Miami game. His playing in the Miami game was a treat for the football enthusiast.

Basketball Review

THE past season was undoubtedly the most remarkable basketball season Varsity has ever experienced. Cincinnati was recognized as one of the strongest teams in the State of Ohio, and although the breaks of the game were against us (three games being lost by a total of four points), every game was hard fought and well played.

The University team attracted attention throughout the city, and the gym was packed for each game. The good spirit of the crowd was rewarded by a winning team and demonstrates the effect of good cheering.

Cincy opened the season by losing to Ohio State, and next to Kenyon by two points. Then the coach perfected his five-man defense and the Kentucky State game showed a marked improvement and was our first victory. Ohio Northern was the next victim. The breaks were against Cincinnati at Springfield, and Wittenberg won by one point. For the first time in ten years Cincinnati won from Miami at Oxford by completely outplaying them. The Bearcats became overconfident in the first half of the Wesleyan game and lost in an extra five minutes of play by one point. The Ohio University game was an overwhelming victory for Varsity. Cincy next tackled Marietta College and, although defeated by seven points, gave Marietta the hardest game of the season, holding them scoreless in the last half. Cincinnati lost her next game to Indiana. At press time Varsity has four more games to play and will finish well towards the top of the Conference.

The Intra-Mural Association

With the handsome cup offered by the University Y. M. C. A. as the trophy, the indoor Intra-Mural meet turned out a large success. Teams representing the Braune Civils, Chemicals, Sophomore Academics, Electricals, Mechanicals and Pre-Medics contested strongly for the cherished points. This is the first time in many years that the Civils failed to walk away with the championship. The Chemicals claimed the championship on a default on the mile relay, while the Civils made a similar claim based on boxing. The awarding of the cup was left to a special Board of Arbitration.

The success of the meet was due to the untiring efforts of Edward Wagner, president of the Intra-Mural Association, assisted by Coach Nikoloff. The Intra-Mural Association aims to promote inter-class athletics to develop material for Varsity teams.

BASEBALL

THE 1919 baseball season was far from a success, from the point of view either of games won or interest displayed by the student body, but in view of the fact that for the first time in a number of years a regular schedule was adopted, it was not disappointing.

The season started with an abundance of material and rosy prospects. In the opening game Wesleyan fell easily, 7 to 5. The next day Ohio State escaped with a victory by the narrowest of margins, 5 to 4. This trip, successful in every way, presaged a remarkable season. The next game, however, was played on a muddy field, and Cincinnati slipped and floundered through a farcical game to defeat by the count of 11 to 8.

From then on the team seemed to go to pieces. Three games in a row were dropped to really inferior opponents. A return game with Kentucky was lost, 7 to 4, and Miami took two contests, 4 to 0 and 6 to 3. A three-game trip to Huntington, where a strong team of semi-professionals was faced, closed the season. Cincinnati pulled together a bit on this trip and managed to win one of the three games.

The following men were awarded their letters for the season: Charles Meyers, Herbert Malone, Sam Seltz, Norbert Bröckman, Brad Roberts, John Wiessler, William Cordes, Herbert Jones, Herbert West (Captain).

The prospects for this year are unusually bright, several promising players who were chasing the Kaiser's admirers having returned. A good schedule has been arranged and all that is now needed is the hearty support of the student body.

Track Review

Although the track season was not particularly successful, several good men were developed and will form a fair nucleus for next year's team. Varsity began the season with a powerful team, which was able to defeat Wesleyan, which later took second place in the Big Six meet at Columbus. After this meet a series of misfortunes seemed to follow the team. To begin with, the Captain, Kenneth Lockwood, was declared ineligible by the Ohio Intercollegiate Athletic Association. This deprived the team of its largest point winner and seriously handicapped its future prospects. At Earlham, because there was a baseball game at Cincinnati in which two members of the track team participated, the team was nosed out of a victory. A similar situation, this time due to the absence of members because of sickness, existed in the Miami meet and permitted the Oxford rivals to win by one second place. The team, as usual, made a creditable showing in the Big Six. West took first place in the 440-yard dash; Mittendorf, whose time established a new Varsity record, finished second in the mile, Hopkins second in the pole vault, and the relay team finished second.

Resumé of Girls' Athletics, 1920

WE hope whoever is asked to write a resumé of next year's athletics will be able to start with hockey and soccer. Unfortunately we cannot, as the poor condition of Carson Field prevented our playing either of these games. We had players, sticks, balls, shin guards—in fact, everything except a dry field.

Basketball has been most successful. This year for the first time our schedule included colleges who play the standard girls' game. Wilmington, Cedarville and Marietta have adopted the girls' game. The Universities of Louisville and Kentucky State still play a modified game based on men's rules. We compromised with them by playing their rules on their court and girls' rules at home. The scores will show how versatile we are.

Besides our Varsity games, we held inter-class games. A rule was passed preventing Varsity players from playing on a class team, and in this way many more girls had a chance to play. The Freshmen had little trouble winning the series.

Swimming took a new lease on life under Sophie Brunhoff. The first inter-class meet was held in the fall. The honors were carried off by the Freshmen. We were asked to take part in the water circus held under the auspices of the Cincinnati Gym. Four of our girls demonstrated that the gentle art of swimming and diving is not confined to the stronger sex.

About the middle of March the inter-class baseball series started. Last year the Seniors won and they expect to do the same this year, notwithstanding the fact that most of them are now practice-teaching.

Field Day ends our athletic year. The Sophomores won the banner last year and came out with the highest individual score.

Varsity Pep

VARSITY'S peppiest year for many a weary moon got off to a flying start on the first Friday of school with the "Get-Wise Meeting" at the "Y" Hut, preceded by a pep meeting at noon on the front steps. These meetings were held every week as long as weather permitted, and were also made use of by the Vigilance Committee.

Later the pep meetings were held frequently during the noon hour in the Commons, and greatly aided the successful support given our teams this year. Eddie Strietlemeier and Will Reeves led them, and brought forth many new songs, new yells, and some lusty singing and cheering. The meetings culminated in the night-gown parade on the eve of the Miami game.

Thanks for their good work are due to Will Reeves, the Bearcat Band, and to Eddie Strietlemeier. Eddie's work as cheer-leader this year certainly was great. Here's hoping his successor may do as well.

The Bag Rush

THE annual rag-man's benefit given by the Frosh and Sophs this year was called "The Bag Rush," and was staged in the arena in front of the Library, October 10, 1919. A mob of bloodthirsty students and shocked professors viewed the battle, which proved a very enjoyable entertainment, particularly to those who were not in it.

Ten sacks, heavily charged with sand, were placed at ten-foot intervals about one-third of the way between the two goals, where the Frosh and Sophs were respectively lined up, each class one hundred strong. The fight was fast and full of action, and unsuited to the taste of the chicken-hearted. Both the Sophomores, under Captain Ideson, and the Freshmen, under Captain Palmer, fought valiantly, and without regard for breath, bruises or clothes. No one was hurt seriously, although several were knocked out.

The big features of the contest were Cy Rhodes, the inspiration for "Mammy's Little Coal Black Rose," who gave an exhibition of a South Sea Islander preserving his modesty after having met with a grievous accident, and the peerless Dot, who turned all the colors of the spectrum when Red was carried off the field.

We never were able to find out definitely who won, but understand they compromised by giving the decision to the Sophomores and remitting a couple of Freshmen Rules.

Contest Day

---

THE Freshmen again tested their strength against the Sophomores on November 15, Contest Day, and were defeated in three of the five events. The powerful Frosh football team, with such men as Fratz, Crolley, Palmer and Linne-man for a backfield, easily crushed the Sophomore team to the tune of 30-0, though the Sophs fought hard. The Frosh also won the push-ball contest. But in the track events the Sophs were supreme, winning the relay race. Melhope won the cross-country and Simms the iron-put.

Cheer-up, Frosh, you'll be Sophs yourselves some day! Better luck then.

Miami Day

SOME gods are very particular, you know, and if every little thing doesn't please them, they frown upon us. This, at least, was the belief of the ancient Greeks, and a good many modern Varsity men believe it, now.

The night before the Thanksgiving game, five hundred girls and men, dressed up in their own (or some one else's) nighties, and had a parade through the streets of Cincinnati to create a sensation among the city dwellers, and let them know that there was a University and a football team. It created the sensation, all right! But—it also brought down on our already over-burdened shoulders the displeasure of our old buddie, Jupe Pluvius. And the following day, he showed his displeasure by frowning on us. Yea, verily,—he wept! Few people saw the game even from the front rows, because of the constant mud screens sent up by the teams in action.

We lost—but we lost fighting. Next year, if we have a night shirt parade, and old Pluve weeps on us—we'll fool him, and put on our trusty Weed chains.

The Game

THE less said about the game, the better. The field made any real football impossible. Outside of the touch downs there were but two first downs completed. One was by Miami on a run by Munns and the other by Cincinnati of short forwards. Cincinnati was at the greatest disadvantage from the soggy field, having the lighter team, and the team deserves great praise for the way in which they held Miami. Both of Miami's touchdowns came as a result of poor punts, the one weak spot in Varsity's playing. The play of our boys was such that should have earned them victory with an even break on the weather. It is hard to pick any individual stars, as team play featured. Occasionally, from behind great gobs of mud, Buck Wenzel, Dan Fries or Bob Sarvis could be seen making their usual brilliant plays.

The grand stand has been completed. There are plans on foot for the drainage of Carson Field. The Miami game demonstrated that Cincinnati has again a first-class team. What may we not hope for in 1920?

FOOTBALL BANQUET

THE football banquet given annually to the team was not a consolation banquet this year. On Wednesday evening, December 17, a big crowd of loyal Varsity students gathered for dinner in the Commons, to congratulate the team on the splendid record they had made this past season, and to show in tangible form an appreciation of Coach Chambers for his part in the work of turning out a winning team. The recognition gift was a very tangible Ford, homely, but most useful.

Dean Chandler acted as toastmaster and introduced with pointed, if not absolutely true, jokes, the speakers of the evening, Bob Heuck, Dr. Benedict, Coach Chambers, Dr. Carson, Captain-elect Fries and Captain Stack.

Varsity "C's" were presented to the members of the team, and football songs and yells ended a delightful evening.

Tri-State Basket Ball Tourney

TRUE to her traditions, Varsity, at the Fourth Annual Tri-State Basketball Tourney on February 20 and 21, showed a host of college-men-to-be what the University of Cincinnati means by "college spirit." More than thirty teams, representing three states, were present, and a more likely bunch of prospective Freshmen has not been seen.

The keenest rivalry showed in the playing of each team. It was clear to the observers, however, after the elimination stage, that the field of the possible winners was limited to the teams representing Crawfordsville, Hamilton, and Wingate. The local teams entered did not come up to expectation and were eliminated early in the meet. The semi-final contest between Wingate and Crawfordsville was the most exciting game played. Well played throughout, it ended in the defeat of Wingate, 17-10. The finals, which was a curtain raiser to the Varsity-Mt. Union game, featured Hamilton and Crawfordsville. Both teams were exhausted from much hard playing, and so far as excitement was concerned the semi-finals were the real events. Crawfordsville, winning with a score of 25-23, became the tri-state inter-high school champions, the receivers of the Post loving cup and the gold medals presented by Varsity to individual team members.

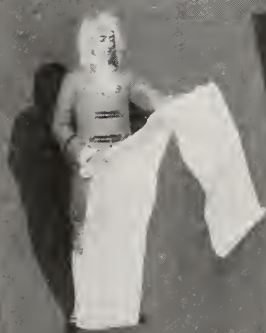

On Saturday, between the finals and the semi-finals, a banquet was given to the teams, which was enlivened by a number of cabaret stunts. The applause which greeted the songs of Marian Holman, Morgan Fenley, and Ben Frankel, the dancing of that list of girls, and of Dorothy Hayward and Alverd Stutson, the choruses of the medic quartette, and the songs and smiles of Florence Whitacre showed that pre-college men can appreciate "good stuff."

The successful management of the visiting teams by Coach Chambers, Gus Beall and the Y Hospitality Committee showed the ability of the men in charge.

The Debate Team

THE triangular debate was held this year with Miami and Kentucky State Universities on the subject:

Resolved: That for purposes of collective bargaining, the organization of all labor within the individual shop or industrial organization offers a better solution to the labor problem than the present system of national unions.

The Cincinnati Affirmative Team defeated the Miami Negative Team; the Cincinnati Negative Team was defeated by Kentucky State, which also defeated Miami. So the honors of the triangular debate for this year went to the Kentucky State debaters.

As this book goes to press, an intra-mural debate is being arranged, as are debates with Western Reserve and the University of Pittsburgh.

The teams for this year's debate are:

 Edward Lee Meyer
 J. Dewey Shields, Captain

Alternate

Frank Weller
 Prof. B. C. Van Wye, Coach

Negative

“Arms and the Man”

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW'S “Arms and the Man” was presented as the University Drama Circle's official welcome to the Freshmen on Friday evening, November 14. The auditorium was crowded, the Freshmen delighted, and the actors tired but happy.

Will anyone who saw the play ever forget Major Petkoff's hearty laugh in the scene with Sergius; Madame Petkoff's disgusted look as she watched her husband drink his coffee from a saucer; Raina's noble attitude and thrilling voice; Louka's bewitching coquetry—and her cigarette; the handsome Sergius' impassioned love scenes; Nicola's convincing worldliness; the officer's clanking sword; and Captain Bluntschli's appetite for chocolate creams?

Varsity Vanities, 1919

Be good, I say! Let Morgan list
The names of all the girls he's kissed!
(Though, when you've later analyzed
That list—oh, dear! You'll be surprised!)

— v — v —

ECHOES

Fritz: Evolution, sweetness, evolution!
Morgan: Ah, the whuffenwhuff calls its mate!
Hilda: Ah, je suis ici.
Russel: Huh, huh—huh, huh—huh, huh—huh, huh, huh—
Here!
Mary: Oh, mama! Buy me that!
Bill: Ah'm goin' back to mah lady frien' in Kankakee!
Fos: I can shimmy, but the faculty says it's naughty.
Sue: Prisms, Plums and Prunes!
Ben: Would you strike a woman with a baby in her arms?
Allan: Girls, you'll simply have to stop talking while I think!
Bud: Aw, wake up, put some pep in it! What d'you think this is—a funeral?

"O, Marion Holman," said Earl
S. Weatherford, "you are a girl
I'd sing to and woo,
Luana, my Lou,
For aye in a Hula Land whirl!"

In Abdol's dream, at Emery Hall,
A star there was named Vera Stall,

Who sang with such art
That still doth my heart
Beat time to her rapturous thrall.

O, Walkow la-la'd, and Scotty dittoed,
And Lavender fa'd and Phillips do-doe'd,
And Friedman the keys struck,
blow upon blow;
"The Medic Quintette," 'twas called at The Show.

— v — v —

WE DON'T WONDER

I think this world is goin' to ruin
Because of the way the people are doin'
It's simply scandalous, you can't deny.
The Wets, the Drys, and the Bolsheviki—
The I. W. W.'s and women freaki
Simply mock my shodesty, I am so shy—
Oh, my!
Now, some men smoke a nasty cigarette,
—But I don't;
And some chew tobacco, which I regret,
—But I don't.
They stay out all night, go to movie shows,
And what they do the Lord only knows—
—But I don't.
Some love the ladies and think it sublime,
—But I don't.
Now you might not think I have a good time—
—Well, I don't!

THE EVE OF MUCH ADO

There was a scene of pomp in Emery Hall,
And Vanities of Varsity had brought

U. C.'s elect to sit in raptured thrall

While acts of histrionic skill were wrought.

Professors and their wives were there. All thought

Was dignified as prisms, plums and prunes;

The trusting audience admired;
and naught

Prevailed to charm but classic steps and tunes;

When, ho! A somerset! (Dean Chandler swoons!)

Did ye not see it? Nay, 'twas but a swirl

Of some chimeric folds! Arrest thy gaze

Upon more seemly scenes! Let no unfurl

Of gauze betray thee, man, to show amaze!

But, list! Co-eds applaud in rounds of praise!

Ye gods! Again! I swear—a somerset!

That giddy acme of adroit ballets!
And out the wheeling whirl of pirouette,

'Twas Dotty Hayward's gaze
the judges met!

Ah, there were starts, and shift-
ings here and there,

And looks at wives; but, yet, no cries of "More!"

From keen-eyed profs who not till then did spare

That commendation they had theretofore

Accorded Art in outbursts of "Encore!"

Their hush was tense; and none, alas! could guess
What lay within those hearts which had before
Received the Muse of Dance with warm address!
Can cautious pause denote what profs suppress!

— v — v —

Deke Fassett was overheard saying to a certain young lady with whom he was associated in the Vanities: "I couldn't treat you better if you were my wife!" The young lady was not properly impressed, for she replied: "Hum—well, I'm glad I'm not married to you in that case!"

The "Fashion Parade" was indeed out of sight,

In that I declare I'm not kidding;

For some of those gowns, they were minus, a mite,—

Befitting creations of "Skidding."

Ben Frankel, from back of his
dear little hand,

Declares he is modest; but we understand,

Whate'er he lays claim to, that he's not so shy

Whenever the chorus is there and you spy

Him down in the Bald-Headed

Varsity Vanities

VARSITY VANITIES, an original musical revue, was given by the students on December 13 for the Memorial Dormitory Fund. Two performances at Emery Auditorium netted a total of $1,424 for the fund. It was the biggest dramatic event ever attempted by the University, and proved a brilliant success.

There was a young man, Morgan Fenley,
Who kept in a neatly made list
The names to a T of the girlies
He one time or other had kist.
But now, to his seeming discomfort
O'er grieving at all of the cost,
That list which he made with such trouble
Has queerly but surely been lost.
So Morgan must do all that kissing
Again, the poor soul! For that list
Is priceless, you see, as without it
Some maiden might some time be missed!

— v — v —

“Now you chase me” acquired a new meaning when our little darlings, Ben Frankel and Mary
Paddack, played tag.

Frank Biddle's sweet love songs
Are what we endorse;
But don't take our judgment!
Just ask “Mary Morse”!

— v — v —

Did you ever stop to count the number of “cases” which developed during the rehearsals for the Vanities? “You'd be surprised!”

— v — v —

Didn't Don Hall do his part suspiciously well?

— v — v —

The girls were to have had “U. C.” on the bodices of their black and red chorus costumes in the last act. They didn't need them: You saw.

— v — v —

Well, it was a lot of work, but it sure was worth it, wasn't it?

The Ulex Ball

'Twas a frosty eve in drear November,
 When Norwood woke and gave a tremor,
 The natives shuddered, quivered with fright
 At the sight in the night of a lurid light
 That streamed from the shutters of the hall,
 Wherein was fought the Ulex Ball.
 With butcher aprons 'round each waist,
 The girlies came, and in their haste
 To enter the ring and swipe the ham
 They started the fight with a mighty slam.
 The fellows ran in to stem the tide,
 And then and there the girls 'most died,
 For the gang had on the funniest duds
 (And some 'tis thought had imbibed the suds
 From some other place than Stapleton's bar
 That supplied the drinks from a cider jar.)
 A few cased their hoofs in classy spats,
 Two crowned their domes with fancy hats,
 And one had patches on his trousers,
 As if he'd fought off all the bowzers
 Kept by the natives to guard the chickens,
 When the city fellers raise the dickens.
 Later on, and by urgent request,

A figure attired in a Turkish towel vest,
Led forth his partner 'mid many sighs,
And danced and blinded many eyes;
Blinded 'em, sir, by jumpin' jimmy,
For he tripped a light, fantastic shimmy.
A wail went up from Willie Myers:
"Why, blast my lights and blow my tires,
I'll put on a dance before you leave
That 'd cause Salome herself to grieve;
I may be getting a little older,
But believe me, kid, I shake a shoulder."
So forth he came and gave a leap;
His skid chains slipped and in a heap
He landed hard before the door
And breathed a deep "No, nevermore!"
But wait a while, for that ain't all—
They played a jolly game of ba'll.
The sides lined up, but the whistle blew,
For Private Roberts lost his chew,
And thereby cost his team the game,
For never again was he quite the same.
The game had ceased and all was done
(For a cop came 'round to spoil the fun).
As curfew had tolled in the village tower,
Prompt on the stroke of the midnight hour.
So homeward sailed the weary crew,
And urged by the kickless cider brew,
They softly sang to drown their troubles:
"We're all forever blowing bubbles."

Varsity's social season was ushered in by the Freshman Reception on November 28. Cornstalks and jack-o-lanterns were grouped artistically in the gym and red and black streamers floated down from the track. A more pleasant beginning to the Freshman year can not be imagined than the Freshman Reception.

The Sophomore Thés Dansants

Y<sup>E</sup>ARLY every Friday afternoon from four until seven, Professor Willsey, of the College of Very Liberal Jazz, meets a large and interested class. Four bits and a nervous ankle are the requisites for admission. So popular have T dances become that no organization in college considers that life is worth while until at least one has been given. (Even the Debating Team threw one!)

But among them all, the Sophomore Tea-Fights are particularly noted. This class has pocketed the receipts of two dances, and it is only May.

Robert Poysell and Dorothy Huff each managed one of the Sophomore T. D.'s (no, not D. T.'s!) and are competing with Goodwin's in their entertainment.

It is even rumored that a fair proportion of the Endowment Fund will be devoted to the maintenance of the high standard of the College of Very Liberal Jazz.

FOLLOWING the precedent established by last year's Prom, Varsity's biggest social event was again held at the Gibson. The saxophone harmony of Jordan's Orchestra caused the annual ordeal of fighting a dress suit to be almost forgotten, and the programs and favors gave an added distinction. The crowd was almost too large for comfort, the wherewithal resultant greatly straining the coffers of the Junior Class, and, thanks to the latter's generosity, materially assisting the Annual, for which we are duly grateful.

The Senior Hop was given in the traditional manner, with corners decorated by each class. The class of 1920 had won the prize for corner decorations three successive years, but was automatically eliminated this year.

They say that the Co-ops made so much money at their dance that they haven't spent it all yet. At any rate, it was the most successful dance, all things considered, that the Co-ops have thrown for a long time.

October

2. Yielding to insistent demand, the Drama Circle decides to repeat "Arms and the Man" for the Frosh.
3. The Woman's League gives a party, and the Freshmanvotich women are gladdened with free eats.
4. Cincinnati 34—Wilmington 0.
6. The Drama Circle waits anxiously for Ben Frankel's diminutive form to appear.
7. Dr. Cummings makes an impassioned plea for "earth-earthiness" to the aesthetes of English 17.
8. The History Club initiates. What was that allusion to Cleopatra and Dr. McGrane?
9. The University News makes its first appearance. Ads are good reading.
10. The Bag Rush! Where is my wandering shirt to-night?
11. Ohio State 46—Cincinnati 0.
13. The "Have Respect for Art" signs disappear amid much lamentation.
14. Y. W. holds its pledge service with white carnations. White carnations simultaneously decorate the coat lapels of half the men in school.
18. Cincinnati 18—Kenyon 0.
20. The Amalgamated Society of Doormats is formed. "Welcome."
22. The Belgium Queen drives past the University.
23. Blue clouds of smoke issuing from the News office indicate a meeting of the Loyal Order of Ulex.
25. Cincinnati 2—Dennison 9.
27. Mary Paddack reads a paper on Irish plays to the Lits.
28. Resolved, that the History Club admit men to its sacred precincts.
30. First Senior Get-Together party provides Deke with a lot of innocent fun, and the Juniors with a lot of good material for the Take-off.
31. First Singing Convocation. Mr. Reeves gyrates to the delight of the Freshmen.

November

1. Wittenberg 0—U. C. 0.
2. The Loyal Order of the Ulex holds a weird initiation out in the rural districts.
4. Carl Rich and Ed Meyer, surrounded by the fair sex of the History Club, demonstrate the gentle art of sipping tea.
5. Sigma Sigma meets in a musty manner.
7. Some of Varsity's shining lights flicker on the "News," "Annual" and "Drama Circle" at the Woman's League party.
8. Kentucky State 0—Varsity 7. We tame the Wild Cats.
10. The executive board for the "Varsity Vanities" is "jumped" by Sam Bailey.
11. Three cheers for Armistice Day!
12. The posters for the Varsity Vanities are "dressed," just to assure the public that the show is eminently respectable.
14. The Drama Circle produces "Arms and the Man." First Tea Dance of the season.
15. Tennessee 33—U. C. 12.
19. The sale of tickets for the Varsity Vanities opens. Notice how fast that "bald-headed" went?
20. The student committee of the Revue lunches with the faculty committee and finds out the secret of the dean's life. Yes, he nibbles milk toast (for lunch).
21. Student Council Tea Dance. The editor of the News aesthetes with the Faculty Editor.
24. Bohemia! Ask the Literary Society what happened at Mrs. Fishburn's.
27. Once more, Miami triumphs—14 to 0. We regale ourselves on that Thanksgiving dinner.
28. The Freshman Reception. The cause of Sigma Sigma's meeting is ascertained when it announces its new candidates.

December

1. Dr. McGrane enlightens the History Club on the "Jacksonian Period" in Cincinnati History. Anyway the history department was there en masse.
2. The director and producer of the Varsity Vanities engage in a little family quarrel (over some rehearsals).
3. Hot Dog! Some wiener roast at the Y.
5. First rehearsal of the Varsity Vanities at Emery. The stars catch — from Bud, and the chorus catches cold.
8. The dulcet strains of Spanish songs interrupt the Lit's paper.
9. "To shimmy or not to shimmy," that is the question. "Thumbs down" is the verdict of the faculty.
11. That dress rehearsal, those oriental dames, that bunch of girls he kissed! The costume chairman threatens to lose her mind.
12. Resolved, and carried that one very new Tin Lizzie be given the coach.
13. They're on! What? They're over! The Vanities! And, oh, boy, it was one grand success.
14. The coach is presented with his can opener.
15. The mystery of the effect of the Vanities on the director is solved. Once more Buddie has lost his heart to a charming, dark-eyed Theta.
16. The pros in chorus, "Now that the Vanities is over, we hope that you will get down to work."
17. The Literary Society entertains the faculty of the English Department with a few "Waits," and Miss Fillmore consumes three dozen English muffins.
18. We desert George, Jake, and Minerva, and depart for a much needed rest.

January

1. Prohibition has come. Deke gets up a petition to vote in the old blissful state, that used to was.
5. Back again. Dr. Griffiths holds a two-hour session at History Club, and Aggie James poses as the Sleeping Beauty.
7. Did those Seniors' ears burn? The Junior Take-off Committee held its first meeting.
8. Mrs. Spankhurst & Co. vote guilty at the Freshmen girls' trial.
9. The mob scene before the Commons door only proves to be Dorothy Briggs surrounded by the usual admiring group of co-ops.
10. Hurrah for the Commons Committee. Hamburger has increased in substance and decreased in price.
12. The S. R. C. comes to a touching end.
14. Hoch the Irish! A very green map of the Irish Republic adorns the desk of the McMicken editor in the News office.
15. What does it mean? "Gentlemen (?) are asked not to smoke in the lunchroom until after one o'clock."
16. "To be or not to be," that is the question. It's up to a Wise Man to say whether or no the Frosh have a trial.
17. Jane Addams speaks at Convocation.
18. Well, Stewart has invited the entire weaker sex of the News Staff to attend Varsity affairs. Now he's got to begin all over again.
20. Miss Dundee returns to the News office after a long vacation in Korea.
22. Ulex is up to something. We await developments and watch Herb Leyland.
26. They're on. But why does Dean Chandler always grin fiendishly when he inquires, "Is everybody happy?"

February

- 6—We recover from the shock of exams, just in time to pay our registration fees.
- 8—Who invented the idea of publishing marks, anyway? Sam Todd only gets seven A's.
- 10—"Tell us not in mournful numbers" that Chas. Wm. is really going to leave us. What will the Junior Take-Off do?
- 11—Carl Rich, surrounded by the thirty adoring girl members of the History Club, gracefully reads a much-rehearsed paper on "Cincinnati in Civil War Times."
- 13—The annual Cincinnati convocation. Those old alumnae ain't what they used to be. Men's Trial. Wasn't little Benny Frankel adorable?
- 14—Was it a funeral or a wedding? The number of corsages show that St. Valentine (and the florists) are thriving.
- 15—Helen Brown establishes a photograph gallery and the Great Unwashed of the University clean up and get snapped.
- 16—Frank Biddle went and done it. Mary Morse wins out.
- 17—After Miss Bennett's talks on "Vocations for Women," Dot Sisson accepts a job as professor of philosophy at the University of Oshkosh.
- 18—Student Council has its own little private war, over the renowned Order of Cincinnati.
- 19—The Drama Circle Tea! Three cheers for the superfluity of eats!
- 22—We sleep the clock round, thanks to the father of our country.
- 23—"Look just about in this direction," sounds like Cincinnati pictures.
- 25—Two million dollars to retain our dear old profs. Herb Winans decides to go into teaching.
- 27—Protest meeting in Auditorium. Bailey acts real rough, and even the Sigma Chis stay to hear him talk.
- 29—Tonight's the night! Beware, you Arrow Collar men; if you have tears, prepare to shed them now.

March

- 1—"Aren't my proofs awful? I'm better looking than that." Same old stall.
- 2—The chronic kickers begin on the Cincinnatus election.
- 3—Three cheers! We beat Miami in basket-ball.
- 4—"How about the Prom? Three dollars will buy eight meals in the commons, and you know the H. C. L. is something fierce."
- 5—Bob leads the promenade with Chris. Wasn't it convenient for Mary Anne to have the chicken pox?
- 9—Dr. Parker leaves our sacred precincts. And he, the only handsome prof at school, with the exception of the beauteous Dr. Sheperd.
- 10—We parade for the Endowment Fund, and create a sensation despite the drizzle.
- 12—Dean Chandler decides to stay with us, and every one smiles once more.
- 13—Junior-Senior elections. My, what a roughneck bunch! Bert, Heinie, Herm and Poicy. Male or female?
- 14—Kinne calls on Marian Fry.
- 16—Elaine de Beck talks to History Club on "Indian Trails." Is that where you first met Bill, Elaine?
- 17—Mary Paddack and Mary Barrett are conspicuous for their touches of green. "Who says we aren't Irish?"
- 18—They ask the Seniors to vote on  $\Phi B K$ . Ed Shields votes for himself.
- 19—Senior Class party. What was Alfarata Myers doing there? Ask Ellwood—he knows.
- 21—Who gave Ellwood his black eye? Ask Alfarata—she knows.
- 25—Woman's League dance. Now we know who goes with who.
- 27—The Drama Circle presents three one acts. Dean Pattee didn't object to the women smoking in the plays.
- 30—The  $\Phi B K$  lists are posted. Oh, well, nothing but prunes belong to it, anyway.

April

1. How natural R. L. S. must feel!
2. Easter vacation. Most of us finish, or are finished, by term papers.
3. Sue creates a sensation by wearing orchids. We infer that Herman must be a young millionaire.
4. History Club open house. Yes, it is true that Carl Rich ate nine (9) plates of ice cream. There were no other men present except R. C. McG.
8. Ye gods, Sue! Flowers again? And only roses this time?
9. Kumalongoola comes along with $3,000 for the Endowment Fund. And it was 99¾% pure.
10. That Ulex jazz party! The moonlight was fifteen minutes long, and Sam was manipulating the lights.
13. Mystic 13 pledges.
14. Glee Club glees at open house, and George says he'll resign if they ever do it again.
15. Opening day at Redland Field, and open season for office-boys' grandmothers.
16. Senior Hop.
17. The Engineers wash their necks and sport white shirts at the Braune Civil banquet.
23. Scandal at the Pan Dance. Catherine Fast wears a dress that was worn in the Vanities Fashion Show.
24. Senior Class play committee is appointed. "What does 'histrionic' mean?" they ask.
27. The men describe their ideal woman, for the delectation of News readers. Well, we're content to wait and see what they get.
28. Langenheim talks on "The Engineer in Society" for the Braune Civils. What kind of society?

May

1. Tan Beta Pi initiation. Bill Breiel pays dearly for the Senior Presidency.
2. The Cincinnatian judges select eight of Varsity's prettiest girls, and the remaining eight hundred cut the judges dead.
3. Sig Alphas throw another dance. Don took her.
4. Parkology booming. No wonder you can never find Hugh Bowen.
7. The "Omitted By Request" scene is wildly applauded except by those Seniors who requested the omission of various scandalous pasts.
10. Some one caught a glimpse of the rock on Herme Hoppe's hand. Red hair is always good.
14. French Club reception. Thank heavens, we don't have to eat in French.
15. Moonlight boat ride. Where was Bill Hinsch when the lights went out?
16. Ed Shields complains of a terrible case of spring fever. His temperature is one-half degree.
20. The Cincinnatian comes out (maybe). The staff rejoices, and Crawford and Winans remember urgent business elsewhere.
24. Coming events cast their shadows before. Why for Senior exams?
25. Only 7,200 more seconds of Anglo-Saxon.
29. We entertain for the High School men; Gwynnedd Smith signs up thirty-three for registration, and incidentally makes thirty-three dates.
30. One more day. "And I've got to have all my credits to graduate."

June

1. Oh, what is so rare—as a new coat of June sunburn?
2. Exams and yet more exams. Why doesn't Dean Chandler join the union and establish an eight-hour exam law?
6. Baccalaureate sermon.
9. Who said this was a co-educational institution? The girls and men give stag parties. But they're, oh, so different!
10. Class play. We claim she's just like Sarah Bernhardt, only Sarah has a game leg.
11. Class Day! Heaven help us if those prophecies come true!
12. Commencement. Those caps and gowns were hot, but we seen our duty and we done it.
13. Exit 1920.

B. B. B.

A noble man is B. B. B.
The deadly hypnotist,
And follower of William James,
That great Psychologist.

We love his Charlie Chaplin lip,
His sky-blue hair so sweet,
But, oh, we love him best of all
When Psych. 1 fails to meet!

Oh, oft's the time we've labored up
Four weary flights of stair,
To find that lunch has called too loud,
And B. B. isn't there.

His temper is angelic, but
If you would see him vexed,
Just gently call attention to
An error in "The Text."

The Piteous Plaint of a Pursued Preacher

(Dedicated to "Oabrey.")

I declaih, folks, I'm in a nawful state!
Spite of awl my efforts not to fascinate,
Awl de guhls just follow me,—won't let me be!
Tell you what, it's fierce to be a man like me!
'Tain't as dough I vamp 'em, foh I'm quite see-date,
Fohwa'd ways in women I a-baw-minate!
In my Ethics book in vain I try to hide me,
Dose confounded females come and sit beside me,
Beg to hold my hand,—now, what you think o' that?
Can't offend them so I give 'em tit for tat.
Ethical? I'm spotless,—just ask Rawbuht Lee,—
He will tell you what a "mawl man" can be.
Sure, I'm kind to women; dey got souls to save,
Even if dey can't quite make their eyes behave.
Fact is, I'm a pawson, ovah cross de rivah;
I can preach to make de hahdest sinnah shivah.
Down in Loozy-Anna, whaih de niggahs grow,
I got my silvah accent and my gift foh "blow",—
Comes in mighty handy to a Y. M. man
Eloquence will get 'em, if dey's anything can!
Folks, I tell ya what, you gotta help me out!
Help me put dat bunch of pesky guhls to rout!
Give me yoah protection, shield me from de raid!
Don' let 'em throw nasty spit-balls on my haid!
Save me, give me succoh from de doting ahms,—
Save a helpless preachah from his own seductive chahms!

Pheeleep.

You know Dr. Ogden, who teaches R. L.?
There's naught about women that he cannot tell.
Brunettes they are faithful, while blondes they are cruel
A life with a blonde is a long drawn out duel.
Pheeleep's striped vests and giddy silk socks
Proclaim to the world that he sure has the rocks;
His eyes are so liquid and soulful and brown,
They make the thrills wander your spine up and down.
But would you believe it? He's still an old batch,
Despite all endeavors this fine fish to catch!
They say he hates women; his feet they are cold;
Now this is the truth of the story, we're told:

The girls called him up every night in the week,
To experience the pleasure of hearing him speak.
He feared they would get him; the risk was too great,
For fearful results often follow a date.
In a cold perspiration he took out his phone,
And had the maid say that he wasn't at home.
He thought he was safe from the terrible lasses,
But, lo they have followed him into his classes!
"And that is the reason," he's said once or twice,
"That they call ladies, cats, and gentlemen, mice."

The Dean and the Shimmie

The Dean with heated wrath he burned
When of the shimmie dance he learned,
He raised a loud terrific shout,
Said "D— it! cut that shimmie out!"

In vain did Buddie argue long,—
He grew vociferous and strong.
But Chandler's Puritanic mind
To all such "Vanities" was blind.

Perhaps if English 24
Were stripped of all its risqué lore,
To empty seats he would orate,
And like the shimmie—meet his fate!

Loyal Order of Ulex

On Knowledge

First Canto

Cloying clusters of saccharinity
Coyly come,
Plying dimply, pale pink Questions—
"Who for and wheremuch?—
If so, when why?—
The Loyal Order of Ulex?"
Groping metatarsals,
Cracked craniums,
Dim peering, eerie eyes,
A fuzzy limned Idea—
No more
The public be damned, but it cannot guess.
Addled, scrambled, shirred and Crosstowned
Tayo Cohen shimmying
With writhing, coiling reptiles,
Was never more at loss for Head or tail.

Second Canto

A sea of upturned faces
In a lake of pea green doubt.
So, a scintillating Being,
Problem toying, struggles.
Brady brains bristle.
The token bearer comes, a figure of great weight,
And, coming, approaches.
Gallop ing exhausts and panting rear springs—
Obeisance, salaam, kowtow, hooch,
“Good people, Ulex is—
Because it am, it therefore are,
Hence must will be.”
Smiling, the girl fell dead.

Book II.

On Style

Consider the liles of the field,
They toil not, neither do they spin,
Yet Solomon Rastus Rufus Johnson Jones in all his glory
Was ne'er arrayed as one of "these."

Police Pick-Ups

A Realistic Play in One Act.

Scene—Police Court

Judge Leyland—"Call the next case."

Prosecutor Bailey—"Red Johnson."

Johnson—"Good morning, Judge."

Judge L.—"All are not gone, the old familiar faces."

Prosecutor B.—"Johnson, you're charged with monopoly. Guilty or not guilty?"

Johnson—"Not guilty, your honor."

Judge L.—"Are there any witnesses?"

Prosecutor B.—"Call Miss Hunter."

Prosecutor B.—"Miss Hunter, do you know this man?"

Miss Hunter—"My little flower—I'll say I know him. Don't I, Reddy?"

Prosecutor B.—"He's charged with monopoly. Guilty or not guilty?"

Miss Hunter—"He's guilty, Judge. He won't let Prather have a date."

Judge L.—"All right. Thirty dances and costs."

Johnson—"Thirty dances! I don't understand, Judge."

Judge L.—"Prather is to take her to thirty dances, and you pay the costs. Understand?"

Johnson—"Yes, your honor."

Judge L.—"All right, then; get out of here."

Prosecutor B.—"Sarah Keating, Ideson and Maddux."

Judge L.—"What's the charge?"

Prosecutor B.—"Alienation of affections."

Miss Keating (softly)—"Your honor, you have forgotten something."

Judge L.—"Oh, yes; call Johnnie Petzhold."

Petzhold—"Here, sir."

Judge L.—"All right; go ahead with the case. Which is the plaintiff?"

Maddux—"I, sir."

Judge L.—"Ideson, have you anything to say for yourself?"

Ideson—"Your honor, this is the first girl I've called on for a year and a half."

Judge L. (yawning)—"What's the matter?"

Ideson—"The only other girl I used to go to see got married—e pluribus unum."

Judge L.—"Miss Keating, do you desire to express any choice in this matter?"

Miss Keating (wistfully)—"Eeny, meeny, miney, mo—"

Judge L.—"That's enough. Settle it out of court."

Judge L.—"Don't call the next case yet. Can anyone in the courtroom spare a chew of tobacco?"

Stutson—"Your honor, I have some chewing gum."

Judge L. (savagely)—"Call the next case; nearly through, aren't we, Sam?"

Prosecutor B.—"Last case, your honor."

Judge L. (uneasily)—"Why is the whole court getting up?"

Prosecutor B.—"Most of them are witnesses in this case. Miss Ulland and Messrs. Ashton, Edmundston and Baker. Also, J. Bolling Jones, Hicks, Flanagan, Ed Wagner. The lady concerned with these last-named refused to respond to the subpoena; said she was all dated up until next February and didn't have time to come to court."

Judge L.—"Well, let X equal the unknown quantity. Proceed with the case. Sam, what's this gang up for?"

Prosecutor B.—"Indulging in a game of chance."

Judge L.—"You fellows are the victims, I suppose?"

Ensemble (in B-flat)—"Yes, your honor."

Judge L.—"Miss Ulland, how much is it worth to you and X to get out of this scrape?"

Hicks, Wagner, Flanagan and Jones (interrupting)—"Your honor, it's worth a great deal to us, and if you'll pardon us for a few minutes we'll raise the money to furnish bail for 'Madame X.'"

Judge L.—"All right, go ahead." (They draw together at the rear of the courtroom.)

Prosecutor B.—"Well, Edmundston, how about you fellows and Miss Ulland?"

Ashton, Edmundston and Baker—"We're broke, your honor."

Judge L.—"Stiff competition, eh?"

Prosecutor B.—"By the way, this isn't another case of monopoly, is it? Any of you fellows have trouble getting dates?"

Edmundston—"Monopoly! Worse than the Standard oil, your honor. She was dated up in January for the boat ride in May."

Judge L.—"I'll conduct this case, Sam. Miss Ulland, have you an engagement for the Fourth of July?"

Miss Ulland—"Yes, your honor. I promised my brother I would help him shoot off his fire-crackers."

Judge L.—"How about Thanksgiving?"

Miss Ulland—"Nothing doing. All dated up."

Judge L.—"Great Scott! Has anyone asked to be pallbearer at your funeral?"

Miss Ulland—"Five, your honor."

Judge L.—"Well, if you'll keep the sixth place vacant, I'll let you and these three go."

Miss Ulland—"Thanks, Judge."

Prosecutor B. (loudly)—"Have you fellows raised that money yet?"

Jones, Hicks, Wagner, Flanagan—"Yes, your honor."

Judge L.—"Very well; pass the hat up to me."

Prosecutor B. (anxiously)—"How much did they raise, Judge?"

Judge L. (spiritedly)—"Twenty cents. Adojurn the court, Sam. We'll eat at Child's today."

When It's Garlic Blossom Time in Avondale

The other day I called upon
A girl with eyes of blue,
With pink flushed cheeks and cherry lips
And hair of raven hue.
The oofenpoofs made music
On the ground above our head,
The grass grew blue upon the trees,
The stars at elbows spread.
We talked of Polly Science
And of Adam Furniture,
Of poorly paid instructors
And the Christian Science cure.
And when I left this dainty girl,
My feelings o'er me swept.
I kissed her lily hand and then
These here words she wept:

Chorus.

"I am surprised! How dare you, Sir!
To kiss my hand, you rum.
You'll never call on me again,
You lop-eared, seedy bum!
I'll have you know that just because
I go to Varsitee,
And 'cause my Dad's got dough, and I
B'long to a s'roritee,
It ain't no sign
I don't want mine,
Boom! Boom!
A littl e'lovin' all the time!"

Book V. On Poetry

“The Wreck of the Hysteric”

The surgeon stopped and heaved a sigh,
 As he smoothed the scalp with rubbered hand.
 “Believe me, nurse, I thought he’d die,
 But he has nerve and lots of sand.
 His fractured dome will heal all right,
 His broken fins will mend in time.
 But one hour more would be good-night,
 And his soul have soared to another clime.
 It will be hard to learn his name,
 For he was robbed of all he had.
 However, there are none to blame,
 He was the victim of a fad.”
 “You’re wrong,” the nurse said with a smile,
 “For in his hand was found a card,
 On which were words of mystic guile,
 Spotted with blood, and slightly marred.”
 He took the card and cried aloud:
 “By my two eyes and good right hand,
 Which kept this guinea from the shroud
 A member of that Ulex band.”

While this poor fellow is coming to
 It will be impossible to employ verse
 To describe his sufferings and mutterings,
 And so with due respect for the Patient, we will stand back, give him
 Air and await developments:

"He moves, he stirs, he seems to feel
 A throb of life along his keel."
 Hold up! he has gone under again,
 So we'll drop into prose and Close the window to prevent the Sound of birds from reaching his Ears, and causing him undue Worry. His eyelids are flapping
 And he is blushing; something
 Evidently is on his mind. He speaks:
 "Minnie, Minnie, Shimmie for me,
 This Prom sure is a jambouree."
 Unconscious again; well, it's small wonder;
 But, there—he's talking now:
 "Gosh! there's a jam here tonight.
 Holy Roller! watch that red-headed Girl. Look at Fenley traveling up
 Stream with his eyes shut—look out!
 Haas ran him down,—nope, there
 He is again; my gosh! how does he Do it? Who's that little girl with Pete Connell? Jiminy! Stutson
 Hit somebody—stand back; give him
 Air. Is he hurt? No, only lost a
 Is some battle. Hear that droning?
 Yes, what is it? A sawmill or Bee-hives? Neither,—it's the girls
 Singing in the fellows' ears.
 Look out—my head. Lord, I'm hurt;
 Quit shoving. Where's that red-headed Girl? Ouch! I quit;
 There's that camel walking again.
 Help! I'm down; my legs are dead;
 I'm gone, oh, Red—"
 Leave the room quietly; he has suffered
 A relapse. As you have probably gathered
 From his mutterings, he is a victim
 Of the Junior Promenade. Those who

Were there will readily understand:
The struggling, pushing, moaning mob,
Like a stampede on the prairie. If
You once lost your footing you were Gone.—He fell and here he lies,
The acme of manhood, crushed,
Battered—a mere wreck. File out Quietly. Hush! he's singing his Swan Song:

“After the Prom was over
Mary took out her glass eye,
Her lip stick, tossed in a corner,
And sighed a lingering sigh;
Placed her false teeth in cold water,
Hung her false hair on the wall,
And the rest of poor Mary went Bye-bye, after the ball.”

On Art

On the left we have Venus, second daughter of Old Man Milo. Ven represents the ideal woman, having remained eighteen years old for eighteen centuries. She also approximates the ideal, in that she cannot talk. Her hair is simply yet quaintly dressed by an old-fashioned stonemason.

Students of art have long been puzzled at the expression of her face, but the best authorities, looking at her position as a whole and especially at her shoulders, are of the opinion that the expression is one of inward satisfaction at having assumed Position One of the Shimmy eighteen centuries before Dot Hayward.

Paradoxically, she strikes one with her absence of arms.

Ven is the Goddess of Beauty. Advertising pays.

Wild Lies That I Have Known

The Sibyl at Delphi—"Quo Vadis?"

Robert Sarvis—"Oh, no place in particular. Thought I'd drop in and pop a few questions."

The Sib—"All right; fire away."

Sarvis—"Do girls ever tell lies?"

The Sib—"I'll say they do."

Sarvis—"Aw, go on."

The Sib—"No kidding—they tell 'em."

Sarvis—"Well, name some."

The Sib—"Better take 'em down, so you'll recognize 'em when you hear them."

Sarvis—"I'm ready."

The Sib—"You dance wonderfully well!"

Sarvis—"Honest, do you think I do?"

The Sib—"You loon, that's a lie; I mean that's one of the lies the girls tell. Take it down."

Sarvis—"All right, I've got it. What's next?"

The Sib—"I'm having a lovely time!"

Sarvis—"So am I."

The Sib—"Now, listen here, kid; either you sober up and understand that I'm not spoofing you, but merely enumerating feminine fibs, or get out."

Sarvis—"I'll quit. Go ahead."

The Sib—"I never go out with men I don't like.' Got that?"

Sarvis—"Yes."

The Sib—"My hair's a sight. I washed it today!"

Sarvis—"Do tell; half of it's true!"

The Sib—"Shut up and tend to business. That's number four. The next one's a bird."

Sarvis—"Let it fly."

The Sib—"I'll never tell another soul! Did they ever spring that on you?"

Sarvis—"Thirty thousand times."

The Sib—"I detest gossip!"

Sarvis—"That's number six."

The Sib—"I think he's adorable, but don't tell him I said so."

Sarvis—"Maybe they mean that, when they say it."

The Sib—"Not on your life. You'll notice that they usually spring that gag just before a large dance, in the hopes that you'll tell the poor boob; that he'll fall for the lie, and sign her up. Why, do you think they'd tell you not to tell him, if they didn't want you to flit right over and pour it in his ear? You certainly have a lot to learn."

Sarvis—"Well, that's what I'm here for. By the way, Sib, it's off the subject, but why do they press your hand a little after the dance has ended?"

The Sib—"Merely to see if the ring you're wearing is eighteen carat or brass."

Sarvis—"What fools we mortals be."

The Sib—"I've never been kissed."

Sarvis—"Now, I know you're lying."

The Sib—"Easy, son; I warned you once. That's one of their white ones—not mine."

Sarvis—"Oh, well; I've sprung the same alibi; so let's call it quits."

The Sib—"Any other questions you would like to propound?"

Sarvis—"What is a Stag?"

The Sib—"A pocket edition of the I. W. W."

Sarvis—"I don't get you."

The Sib—"Well, as you know, I. W. W. means I Won't Work, hence rather than take the trouble of fighting for dates; waiting for the dear young things to toss a piece of mosquito bar around their throats; taking a short nap while they make up their minds as to what they'll have to eat; throwing stones at the window if they have forgotten the door-key; and carrying a pocketful of dorines and handkerchiefs—they stag it, and think they're real Samaritans, in that they constantly relieve the fellow of his girl, so that he can rest and take an inventory of the dorines, handkerchiefs, etc."

Sarvis—"One more question, Sib; why do the girls sing at the dances?"

The Sib—"I've often heard, on clear nights, sounds like the seventeen-year locusts, but only recently did I discover the reasons and causes. There are three reasons:

1. To give the impression that they are attractive, interesting and brainy.
2. To cure a sore throat by wearing it out.
3. To show how cleverly they can imitate a B. & O. switch engine whistling for a grade crossing, a tow boat in distress or an orphan hyena."

Sarvis—"Thanks awfully, Sib, for all the dope. Here's a ticket to Danceland, if you can use it."

The Sib—"Thanks, Bob; I love to dance and—to sing."

Before the Next Dance

GET THE

Ulex Ear Plug

Guaranteed to shut out any noise, from the whistle of an ant to the explosion of home brew. An absolute preventive of that singing sound in your ears, so common at the modern dance. This plug will allow free passage of sounds of genuine music; and all sounds in accord with the law of harmonics and the music of the spheres, but will absolutely eliminate all harsh notes, discords, abnormal howls, screeches and yodels.

What Others Say:

Boiler Makers' Gazette: "Greatest invention of the age."

National Academy of American Dancing Masters: "A friend of true art."

Surgeons' Weekly Compress: "Has lowered the percentage of neurasthenic cases. It is a boon to humanity."

Janitor of The Woman's Club: "I could not do without it."

Adam: "Had I possessed one, we'd still be in the Garden of Eden."

Paradise Lost

Or, Into the Primitive

September 13—The professor said that I passed my examination in gym owing to my successful combat with chewing gum, I having stopped the use.

22—The first day,—and it rained. I wear my new raincoat to show that even though I come from Ludlow we know what they are for.

23—A fresh guy named Strietelmeier made us stand on the front steps and yell. We yelled at the Y Hut in the afternoon: "When do we eat?"

29—Don Hall, that funny fellow with the green shirt, got pinched for speeding. I saw him in jail and heard him cuss when I was on Main street.

October 2—Perceived Bill Hinsch riding with nine of those girls who wear kite-shaped pins. A cop yelled "Oh, Papa." I didn't know he was married.

6—And still they arrive. Second section co-ops register, and their finger nails were clean, too.

9—Reds win the pennant and Footsie Widau is seen eating a regular meal.

10—Those rude Sophs wouldn't let us win in the sack rush, and, besides, they tore my shirt and Cy Rhodes' pants.

15—The corridors are darkened. Solution found when Big Ben Frankel is seen standing in front of three girls.

20—Jim Cunningham suggests that they charge a lab fee in Dr. McGrane's courses and furnish the ink.

21—R. O. T. C. get rifles. Mine has the date 1865 carved on the stock.

22—The queen of Belgium visits the university and we get out of class to see her. Deke Fassett tipped his hat to a fellow in uniform, thinking it was the king, but it was only the chauffeur.

28—Herbert T. Leyland, LL. B., that fellow with the sad look, deals 'em off the arm at the Sig house and spills soup down Thayer's neck.

29—Dr. Gardner fights a duel in Pol. Sc. 1 with a steam shovel. The latter had a bass voice and won out.

November 1—The afternoon tease starts while our heroes play a scoreless tie at Wittenberg in the mud. Someone swipes Dr. Breese's Ford. No, Ed Meyer has a Sedan, not the kind that was hooked.

2—Ulex initiates. They say I will be eligible as soon as I find out what a "gaboon" is.

7—We try to jump the Vigilance Committee like the Frosh did last year, but are unsuccessful because most of our class are dancing in the commons to Fos Hopkins' orchestra.

12—The art posters for the Annual beauty contest go up and Bub Crawford is seen and heard asking the fare to South Africa. Where will he go when the decision is announced?

13—The Y. W. comes to the Hut to eat lunch with us, but we have to act nice and don't get enough to eat.

14—We are invited to see "Arms and the Man." Deke Fassett was afraid his mustache would smear. So was Lilymae.

15—Those mean Sophs kidnaped Billy Wachs, our star runner, and we lost Contest Day. In practice, the Soph football team looked great, but in the game—Oh, Boy!

21—Who was that tall, dark man at the tea dance? Well, prof or no prof, if he cuts in on me once more—

26—Stops raining in time for the nightshirt parade. The Sophs are weeping in the arms of the Seniors and Juniors over the midterms. Do E's mean anything? I got them in every course. I suppose they mean excellent.

27—Miami wins in the mud-diving contest and Varsity money departs this city for the country storekeepers.

28—We all get in the Freshman Reception dance without paying as long as we bring girls. That is so the upperclassmen can climb in the window and dance without paying for it.

29—My girl got all dressed up to go to the Ulex Dance with Herbie Winans and he wore old clothes. The rest of the men wore overalls. Served her right for going to a dance given by those fellows.

December 1—Dorothy Sisson gets all dressed up for the History Club meeting, as men are to attend.

3—Rehearsals for the Vanities go vainly on.

4—Dannual Lawrence says we have plenty of coal and the strike will not affect us; classes as usual. Why did they strike, then?

5—Rehearsal at Emery. Gee, that place looks big!

8—The faculty gets peeved at Foss' shimmy and censors the Vanities. Talk about fireworks—it had a rolling barrage backed off the map.

11—Dress rehearsal for the Vanities. Guard is appointed to see that Bud doesn't try to commit suicide.

13—Thank heaven, it's over with; now I can get down to study, as Doctor Cummings says my punctuation is terrible.

15—Looks like all the gentlemen of Phi Beta Kappa are handing out presents early. Everybody has the quiz fever.

17—I attend the football banquet, and girls come, too. Red Stack and Doc Carson have to change their speeches when they see Mrs. Coach and Mrs. Fred there.

20—At last we are allowed to depart in pieces after the quizzes are over. Will it do any good to give the profs Christmas presents? Esther says not; she has tried it three years and it doesn't work.

31—New Year's Eve. Saw Brad Roberts coming home sober. He must have been sick.

January 5—Gee, but those two weeks traveled fast. Notices for three tea dances and two regular dances are on the bulletin board.

6—A girl with a bright yellow sweater tried to steal my dairy. I shall use every means to retaliate, even if I have to tell her age.

7—Sigma Sigma initiated. Afterwards Bill Myers' machine tried to get in Meck's and broke a wheel. It wasn't Bill's fault, as he could say "prestidigitator" and make his fingers meet.

8—Girl's Trial. Ruth Jameson, our Student Council member, has to speak, and does so, while Mary Paddock, the Irish Revolutionist, gets the general laugh. Yes, but who was the man?

12—Chi Omega versus S. A. E. dance a great success.

14—The girl who tried to get my book was Aggie James. She left off that mean sweater and even Stew Garrison didn't recognize her.

16—Next week is the last before the semi-annual annoyances. I give notice to the secretary that my address is changed so my grades will not be sent home.

19—Saw Snowflake Haas going into the Strand to see Eugene O'Brien—"The Perfect Lover."

20—Ditto. Something wrong some place.

21—Ditto. I'll bet Haas has a date.

22—The mystery solved. Haas calls on Alfarata. Wonder if his course at the Strand did any good? If so, I might try it, as I know it helped Pete Morris.

26—Flunked an exam.

27—Flunked two exams.

31—Went to Miami and watched Varsity practice putting the ball in the basket while Miami watched.

February 5—My train leaves at 4 P. X. and I shall bid welfare to this noble university and go to Miami, where I can pass and make Phi Beta Kappa.

Confessions of a President's Wife

Since Sam became a President
I never know where he has went.
It's meetings here—committees there—
My hair is getting gray with care.
For Helen is too pretty quite,
(I think my hair is nearly white!)
I put the question up to you,
If you were I what would you do?
Since Samuel entered Public Life,
He scarcely ever sees his wife!

In the Office of the News

If I had an hour of leisure, and I wished to seek a place
Where Varsity afforded Beauty, Wisdom, Wit and Grace,
Of all the bowers of pleasure, I'm inclined to think I'd choose
To occupy a corner in the Office of the News.

Here you'll find an Irish colleen, par la personnalité
Winding men around her fingers, as a potter molds the clay.
And Hilda, favored votary of the young "vers librist" muse,
Penning exquisite creations in the Office of the News.

The company's always charming; here a mystic poet-Straus
Sings of women, wine and roses, in a psychical carouse,
While our Don looks wild and wicked, and discussess favorite brews
To an audience of experts, in the Office of the News.

If you're here in proper season, you may see how Florence weaves
A garland of enchantment in the office, ere she leaves.
I could name a score of others, whom the hand of Beauty strews
The roses of its presence in the Office of the News.

And love is not forgotten; Cupid practices his arts
With plenty of materials—the editors have hearts!
There is one who waits and watches; there is one who comes and woos
When the twilight throbs and thickens in the Office of the News.

Sometimes they're wildly witty,—how the witticisms fly,
Buzzing bees of harmless laughter; they will sting you if you're shy.
Still, if you're game but gloomy and would chase away the "Blues"—
Light a cigarette and saunter to the Office of the News.

Sometimes they're grave and serious,—with eloquence debate
On the mysteries of Shakespeare, or the League of Nations' fate.
How the buds of wisdom blossom in the intellectual dew
That fall like heavenly manna in the Office of the News.

Here the future politician, journalist, or legal light,
The pet and the preacher and the statesman's mind of might Meet, and lay the firm foundations for their future comic views
In the clash of conversation in the Office of the News.

But it's not all fun and frolic; they've a paper up to date
Where you'll find the latest gossip, culture, sports, affairs of state.
So I'll bow my poet's exit, with apologies profuse
If I've uttered any libels on the Office of the News.

—Charles M. Diserens.

A Modern Dramer Dreamer

---

'Twas the night before a fierce exam
In English 24,
I'd crammed and studied, racked my brains—
And read plays by the score.
( 'Twould never do to flunk the thing
And disappoint the Dean ; )
My mind grew vague, my senses reeled
And I went clear off my bean.

The Sunken Bell tolled loudly at Mrs. Dane's Defense,
The Notorious Mrs. Ebbsmith's excitement was intense.
Peer Gynt said The Betrothal of Cyrano the brave
To Magda, The Intruder, would make a pigeon rave.
Chantecler on his Honor swore that Lady Windemere's Fan
Was Damaged Goods which Candida bought on the installment plan.
Poor Péléas and Mélisande led very Lonely Lives ;
And The Second Mrs. Tanqueray didn't care for second wives.
Hedda Gabbler gobbled up both wings of The Wild Duck,
And Little Eyolf envied The Chocolate Soldier's luck.
A Woman of No Importance vamped The Master Builder right ,
Hannele lost her Gauntlet in the darkness of the night,
She tried and tried to find it by The Fires of St. John,
But proved her effort quite a waste, and stopped long Before Dawn.
The Profligate announced The Joy of Living simply gone,
Until he saw Miss Pippa Dance and try to lead him on.
The Ideal Husband rushed to greet The Lady from the Sea,
And Ghosts, haunting The Doll's House, gamboled in ghoulish glee,
Enticing Monna Vanna jumped high upon a chair,
And cried and shrieked for Bluebeard because The Rats were there.

I woke, and tried to straighten out
This very motley crew,
And prayed that next day in exam
I'd get one play I knew.

Epistles of the Apostle Pan

THE TWELVE APOSTLES
GIVING HIS STUFF THE RASPBERRY

1. Now it came to pass that in those days when Samuel was Chief Ruler of those students that called themselves students of the University
  2. That there were many societies within the personnel of the University
  3. And they called themselves by strange names which in our language meant nothing, but in the language of the ancient Greeks signify profound things.
  4. And there were many, both male and female, and of the like there was never anything known.
- Sigma Chi
1. Among the societies was one named Sigma Chi which first became known to the chorus girls in the year of our Lord 1882.
  2. It was the custom of the members to boast of their past, and in truth at one time, of all the fraternities, this one had been the best.
  3. But no man could say for what reason it was organized until the beginning of the Great Drought.
  4. For then did their lamentations fill the land and they cried out in a loud voice, saying,
  5. We do not like this prohibition and we are against it.
  6. There was one named Morgan, whose surname was Fenley, which in Maxennett means "patent leather hair."
  7. And in the sub rosa parties Morgan was always of great help, for the chorus girls were pleased to find one of themselves at the house to show them about.
  8. And he had a cousin Tiff, whose surname was Miller, and he was a man of great valor, though much abased by Creaghead, the "Missing Link."
  9. Chief among them was Robert, whose surname was Thayer, who was good to look upon and fair of speech.
  10. And he said to the Sigma Chis who were Juniors and to the men of the Arts College:
  11. Choose ye me to be Senior President and I will give unto you each a fine suit of purple and ye shall live on the fat meals of the lunchroom.
  12. And they sware they would, but the Sigma Delta Pis said:
  13. If ye do this thing we will cause such havoc upon you and yours as was never before heard tell of, for hath not Samuel sworn that he will give to us football suits if we make him chief ruler?

14. Now the friends of Robert did not crave football suits, but they were filled with fear of what the Sigma Deltas had threatened and they fled—the Liberal Arts to a tea dance and the Sigma Chis to find the safe cellars of the Gibson and the Sinton.
15. When Robert found that he was not elected he went to the Chi House and put on sack cloth and ashes and would neither laugh or cry when Morgan and Tiff danced before him.
18. When the Sigma Chis heard that the Dekes had chosen Havana for their next conference, they said:
19. Truly, they are wise men and we will do likewise.
20. But Eddie, whose surname was Shields, frowned, and said: Oh, you foolish virgins, would you go to Havana where all women are high browns? Come with me to Paris and drink wine and burn incense, etcetera.
21. And they said, We will go, for the etcetera is a good word.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

1. In the beginning was Samuel, known to the people as Gompers, who was an organizer.
2. And Samuel had a rival who founded Sigma Alpha Epsilon, an association of boiler mechanics.
3. Now although Samuel may have the higher personnel, no man can say that their numbers equal those of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, for the Sig Alphs are as the sands of the ocean, and some of them are without numbers.
4. In the year 1889, S. A. E. in its annual canvass for new chapters, found some students at the University willing to accept one of the score of new charters offered each year.

5. Now it was well known that the power of the Sig Alpha was great in the town of Norwood, which is on Duck Creek Road.
6. And when the police force of Norwood heard of them, they said,
7. If they are rough we should be of them and should be affiliated.
8. And this thing was done and from that time the youth of the town felt that they could not but join Sigma Alpha Epsilon.
9. There was in that town a man named Donald, whose surname was Gill.
10. And it was his wish to be a Beta, but such was his fear of the Sig Alphs that he said,
11. This thing is not for me.
12. And he pledged Sig Alph, but life was such a disappointment that he quit school.
13. The Sig Alphs held it a thing of great embarrassment to compete against the fraternities for good new members.
14. And for this reason they said to Phi Delta Nu of Norwood:
15. Sware that fifteen of your young men shall take out cards from our union each year, and we shall send Donald, whose surname is Hall, to teach you self-advertising.
16. And they sware that they would do anything only that Donald Hall should not be sent.
17. But the Sig Alphs were fearful lest they succeed.
18. And they built a camp on the banks of the river Miami like unto the boys' camps which the Y. M. C. A. was wont to have.
19. And when it drew near to that day called registration they took the young men there and made them prisoners so that no man could forewarn them of their peril.
20. And there was one named Fos, who was called Hopkins by the girls, which means "wicked."
21. Now so interested in foreign missions was the fraternity that it said to Fos:

22. Go thou into the land of Kentucky, even unto the Blue Grass Inn, and carry to them the word.
23. And he went, and abode with the people of the Blue Grass Inn for many days of one summer.
24. But when he returned, the brothers perceived that he was changed and they took counsel one with the other, saying:
25. Why does he stand and tremble as one with the ague?
26. But he heard them and said, I have learned a new word,—it is Shimmy.
27. Now when the multitude heard this they filled the carbarn with their grief and forbade him to go to tea dances lest the dean see him and cast him forth.

Beta Theta Pi

1. In those days when Miami University was still young and before the Y. W. C. A. was known,
2. It came to pass that certain of the less wise men met and communed, one with the other.
3. And they said, Let us unite and withdraw ourselves from the rougher element that we may stay refined and proper.
4. And they did, and formed Beta Theta Pi, and declared themselves for Woman's Suffrage and Prohibition.
5. Now this story is old and well known to all men, yet do the Betas take strange pride in their lowly beginning.
6. And there came a time when the people of Cincinnati forgot good and learned to smoke cigarettes and kiss the maidens.
7. And a punishment was meted out to them that became as a spear in their side.
8. For a chapter of Beta Theta Pi was placed at Cincinnati.
9. Henceforth and from that day the girls never lacked a political leader.
10. Now there was one William, whose surname was J. Bryan, who for three times tried to be elected chief ruler of the land.

11. Also of the Betas there was one William, whose surname was Hinsch, who was a great admirer of the other foolish William.
12. And he said, We are both persevering men; perhaps I shall be more appreciated by my friends.
13. And he offered himself three times to the class, saying,
14. Make me ruler, and I will get you a summer job at my uncle's counting house.
15. And the saying greatly pleased his friends, but he was not elected.
16. Now there is some talk of the older William running for chief ruler of the land.
17. Who shall say that these Williams may not succeed sometime?
18. And among the Betas was one Herb, whose surname was Winams, which is a Dutch word and means "Protector of the Wild Women."
19. And whenever a stranger came to the House of Beta, Herb was wont to read sayings to him from a curious scroll, which was sent to the House each month and was the cause of much smiling.
20. Now the name of the scroll has been forgotten, and certain say it was called the "Police Gazette," but more say it was the "Ladies' Home Journal."
21. Now in the Beta House was what is known as a gobboon, and of all things the Beta Freshmen hated this gobboon the most,
22. Except one Bradley, whose surname was Roberts, for the gobboon belonged to Bradley.
23. And they were known as the Pink Tea Betas, but the Sigma Chi's stole from them the name, for each day in the Commons certain of them assembled and, led by Herbert Thompson Leyland, guzzled tea.
24. This was in the time of the Great Drought.

Phi Delta Theta

1. Now there was a place called Mt. Auburn.
2. And there was a great house in Mt. Auburn where dwelt a host of maidens,
3. And though many of them were beautiful, they were more often spoken of as very interesting.
4. And near this place was the House of the Phi Delt.
5. And this is told, how the Phi Delt had no chance to be good and do as they oughter.
6. But they had among them one known as Footsie, who was constantly saying to them :
7. Why for can ye not leave the women alone, likewise strong drink and craps?
8. And they would say, We will.
9. But the next day the Owl would have an interesting account of the sinfulness of the Phi Delt.
10. And there was one Deacon, whose surname was Fassett.
11. And Deacon was very powerful in the tribe of Engineers, even as Samuel, who made Saul King of Israel.
12. For of all men known as wire-pullers there was none who had so many
13. Wires as he.
14. And this was because he could talk so well.
15. Those of his friends were wont to say, Verily, Deacon could have sold a fur coat to Pharaoh.
16. Now there was also one Robert, whose surname was Poysell.
17. And Robert was pursued by the women, but he would have none of them.
18. And he fled from them until one day he saw one dancing ;
19. Now from that day they have met in the hall after every class, and communed together.
20. And there was also one Willard, whose surname was Breiel.
21. And Willard was known throughout the land, for he was the cause of great laughter.

22. And this laughter used to cause him great pain and anger,
23. For he knew that although men thought he was clever, it was just that he was born that way.
24. Now no man likes to be laughed at when the fault is not with him.
25. And there was one Pet, whose surname was Gregory,
26. And the maidens gave him the name of Pet, but for what reason the people do not say.
27. And the Phi Delt were very religious, but in their own way.

Delta Tau Delta

1. Now there was a fraternity known as Delta Tau Delta, and the members were called Delt,
2. And the Delt say that beyond doubt they are the best.
3. Now during the Great War there were so few Delt that they must perforce abandon their House and occupy a room in the Burnet House.
4. And while they were there they saw that the hotel business brings in much wealth,
5. So they bought a large house and pledged a vast number of men and started into the business.
6. And there was one among them called Pop, whose surname was Bowen, which is a Hebrew word and means "Money Mad."
7. And all men say that the Delt Hotel must be making money, else Pop would not be running it.
8. Now among them was one Red Daryll Wright Winston, whose surname was Johnston ;
9. And there was a maiden who smiled kindly upon him, and of whom he spoke in botanical terms.
10. But all men declared that she was not his so much as he hers.
11. For said they, Has she not his goat, and does he not follow her about even as the lamb followed Mary?
12. And among them had been one Robert, whose surname was Heuck.
13. And Robert owned a great theatre.
14. And through his charity, the Delt were able to hold great festivities at

- the shows that were not making money.
15. And the rushees, being Freshmen, did not know the difference, and thought these parties very fine.
  16. Now there was one Stew, whose surname was Garrison, who was a great plaything of the maidens.
  17. For they said,
  18. He is a dutiful son, and gentle.
  19. And Ebersole, whose surname was Crawford, was a Delt.
  20. And he was known as "Sleeping Sickness," for he was slow of speech and forgetful in action.
  21. Indeed he sometimes was wont to say,
  22. Ain't nobody got nothin' to say?
  23. Now the Delts liked to be first in all manner of activities.
  24. But there were always so many dances that they could never practice for athletics or scholarship,
  25. And the Betas beat them out with the women.
  26. And there were so many Delts living at the Hotel that the Social Unit reported them to the Better Housing League,
  27. But it was found that it was not so bad, for rarely did all of the brothers get back to the House after a party.

Pi Kappa Alpha

1. Now among the students of the University were many of the fraternity known as Pi Kappa Alpha.
2. They were better known as the "Cheer Up Kids" because of their intimate association with Fenton's.
3. And it was said that one must be an optimist to be a Pi Kap, else he could not weather the disappointments of closer acquaintance with the society.
4. Now among them was one Strietelmeier, which in Anglo-Saxon means "Leather Lungs,"
5. For none could bellow so loud and long as he.
6. Now on the great day of games, on the last Thursday in November, Cincinnati was beaten

7. For while Red Stack was exhorting and raging at his valiant men Leather Lungs was howling and making such noises
8. That the brave became fearful of their souls and fell in the mud and lay there trembling and gnashing their teeth.
9. And there was one named Babe, which is short for Baby, and whose surname was Jones.
10. Now Babe was famous as a flat-foot dancer, for he was built that way, and it was the wonder of all men that he did not catch cold, with so much of his body on the ground.
11. And Baby had a brother known as Bo-Peep, and because of his kinship and innocent youth he had also become a Pi Kap.
12. Now he was called Bo-Peep because he always had the appearance of having lost something.
13. But in his case it was not sheep but shekels, which he had lost to Pi Kappa Alpha, and he did not know where to find what he got for them.
14. And there was also a man whose surname was Fitzgerald, but called Percival by his mother.
15. And of all things he liked least the name of Percival.
16. Now Fitz did not care much for the ladies, except one.
17. And her did he like exceedingly well.
18. For she feigned to forget his Christian name and was wont to address him as "My Cave Man."
19. And the Pi Kaps aimed to have a table in the Commons, but they could never find it for the fraternities were so thoughtless about the rights of the non-fraternity men.

Lambda Chi Alpha

1. Now there was a man named James, whose ancestors had all been known as Cunningham,
2. And he was from the wild country, even Kentucky.
3. When James entered the University he gathered about him certain and said,
4. Though there be many frats here

- they have all forgotten and they cease to pay the preacher,
5. And his friends communed among themselves, saying, I'll say so.
  6. And he said, I will form a frat, and ye shall be my charter members at half price, and we shall rule the land so that all men shall know of us.
  7. So it came to pass that one night in the S. A. T. C. kitchen this frat was formed.
  8. For forty days there was beating of skillets and great joy among these persons.
  9. At the end of that time they invited the wise men of Lambda Chi Alpha to Cincinnati.
  10. And the wise men came, and James and his friends took them to the picture show and feasted them at the Manhattan Restaurant.
  11. And before they had eaten too much they communed together, saying,
  12. Truly, these are jolly fellows, and they fell on the neck of James and made him a Lambda Chi Alpha.
  13. And to the others likewise.
  14. And James became king of the Vigilantes and became devilishly famous, so that all men learned of James Cunningham.
  15. And there was of this organization one Speedy, whose surname was Mittendorf, who was divinely tall and most divinely fair.
  16. Now some say that he is fast in the footrace, but he claims to be versatile.
  17. Now there were none so active in activities as the Lambda Chi Alphas, for among them were News reporters, athletes, a few janitors and one of the professors.

Sigma Alpha Mu

O Maik Rum Chapter was, as we are told, installed with a hand-pump and an obsolete tool called a beer-opener, in 3 B. P. (Before Prohibition). Ah, with what fragrant, flagrant, vagrant memories the Sig Alph Mu brothers look back on these bacchanalian days preceding the advent of Killum Joy Dryan and Demon Marshmallow Sundae! The name O Maik Rum sounds suggestive — to Federal officers on the alert for illicit stills. But still, the Sig Alph Mus lead exemplary lives; in fact, as as innocent as Kokomo kindergarteners. Of course, they may have a little leaning toward stags with little session at— Oh, well! Their colors are appropriate — purple and white (for the way their pledges look when they get through with 'em).

But, sh-h-h! At the Sig Alpha Mu convention in Boston this year the horrors of prohibition were cursed and discussed, and it was decided to establish an active (very active) chapter in Cuba. 'Tis to be called Nixon Nearb Eer. Yo-ho Mac Duff! The virtues of being a Sigma Alpha Mu.

The punch at the O Maik Rum spring dance had a punch. One brother, noted all-round athlete and baseballer, 'tis whispered, spiked it. Mebbe the condition of the punch accounts for the fact that the dance was such a gosh-fired success.

No, Gwendolyn, the Sigma Alpha Mu's have no house. Prohibition killed all the desire for one. You know a house without a Pilsner cellar is like a tea-dance without jazz.

Sigma Delta Pi

This fraternity is one of the oldest locals in U. C. Just when it originated, no one knows. Like the Helots conspiracy of Greece, like the communist revolt in France, like the Boxer revolt in China, has the menace of Sigma Delta Pi become known to us. Led by Sarvis, the Toussaint d'Overture of this epoch, they overcame the school and elected Bob Sarvis president of the Junior Class. The Sigma Delts are by now well known; everyone has heard the noise of their herald, Dickie Dunham, who breaks out with his trombone whenever discouragement weakens.

Alpha Nu Sigma

Reade claims they have a fraternity house and a tennis court, but owing to the fact that Kratt's shoes have littered the house with the surface of the court, they are making improvements in their domicile, probably using the material at hand to stucco the works. It is hoped that after the house has been tidied up, as it were, Crowe and Fleming will desert Meidels and North Turner and return to their brethren. Crowe claims he hates to hang around the house of evenings because Hollister is kind of careless like and leaves his articles of apparel all over the place. He found a shoe in the umbrella stand last night, probably a relic of the advent of prohibition, which reminds us that the gang "ain't what she used to be." Nope, not since July 1, 1919.

The Modern Mother Goose

Oh, Those Days—

Brad Roberts was recently reviewing his past life and thinking of all the foolish things he had said. He finally decided that the ones he regrets most are those he uttered way back in 1915, when he said, "No, I don't believe I'll take any today."

Sophisticated

Cunningham (to Frosh): "Why don't you wear your red and black cap?"

Ellsworth: "Gee, mister, if I wore that red and black cap, Dottie would know I was a Freshman!"

Ernie: Do you know that girl over there, Bob?

Bob T.: No.

Ernie: Didn't think so.

Bob: Why?

Ernie: Looks like a nice girl.

Which Red?

Dot: The only trouble with Red is that he's lazy.

Jim: I should say he is. Why, he runs over bumps in the road, when he's driving, to knock the ashes off of his cigarette.

Ever Had It?

"I had the most delicious lunch at the Gibson today. Um-m, had just everything!"

"I had lunch in the Commons today. I had everything, too."

"Is that so, really? What did you have?"

"Hash!"

Bud: Didn't see you standing in front of McMicken today, Sam.

Sam: No. It wasn't very windy.

Kill her? Yes, I killed her, and I have never regretted it. Ah, how well I remember that balmy spring day when I first saw her, her golden locks shimmering face, those ruby lips as they answered Professor Passarelli's roll call. It was the first day of the term; all the new students had gathered in the class room. She and I were side by side. Ah, that I could meet her. Meet her I would, but how soon? An angel! Nothing but an angel, I thought, as I glanced furtively at her.

But, oh, the shock of that second day. I was called on to recite, and not having prepared the lesson I faltered with the answer, when, horrors—The Girl tittered! I shot a glance at her—yes, she was looking at me—and giggling. A cold chill ran down my spine. Never will I forget it.

I went to a party that night and did not get home till three, so I couldn't study Spanish then. Next morning I came into the class room late. As I opened the door, all was quiet; then when I walked in—she tittered! That noise went right to my spine. How can I explain it. The Girl I had fallen in love with at sight—giggling when I made mistakes. But then—as I rose to recite, I again faltered,—and she giggled. That same silly giggle.

Thursday night I was introduced to her at a dance. "Mr. Brown? Oh, yes, I know Mr. Brown," she said. "He is the brightest man in our Spanish class," and she accompanied it with that—giggle.

A week later I came in a trifle late to class, and had just seated myself when Professor Passarelli asked me to translate. I did, after a fashion. "Mr. Brown," said the professor, "it seems to me that you are somehow not suited to Spanish. Could you tell me what is the national anthem of Spain?" The national anthem of Spain! Good guns! All eyes were upon me. I blushed, then turned white, and after swallowing several times I was about to say I didn't know when she leaned towards me and whispered, "The Marseillaise." The Marseillaise. Of course. I smiled dryly and said in a loud, confident voice, "The Marseillaise!" The room swam before my eyes; such laughter I have never heard before re-echoed. All was confusion and noise, and through it all I heard that shrill, sickening—giggle.

Kill her? Yes, I killed her and I have never regretted it.

Hector Hoofus Rip Van Winkles

Forestall

In the old days Hector Hoofus, U. C. '09, clam-faced around the shady confines of old McMicken quite mer-ri-ly. As an accumulator of assorted eyefuls, he was a supersaturated hat-rack. In other words, he had the dope. Upon his unheralded return this spring to these parts, he again allowed his eyes to become filled. As a result, a burning question bulges paramount in his tightly convoluted noodle. Briefly, it is just this: For the luvva Mud, for what reasons, if any, are the sororities, or rather in other words, that goo-google from the proverbial mouths of equally proverbial babes, women's fraternities, suffered to exist? Hector was so appalled at his own answer to his question that he fell in a swoon, and it is generally understood that he is still falling. However, a few jottings were left behind, which we are fortunate enough to be able to reproduce. You, kind but gentle reader, may coggle the question for yourself, and may the devil take the hindmost.

Delta Delta Delta

The Tri Delts are the pioneer sorority at Varsity—you can tell that by looking at them. In the old days they were exceptionally strong; in fact, they were able to compete with the assortment of locals then at large. Due to the acceleration they received at the start, they have never had any very rough sledding, except once when a "Pi Kap" got peeved temporarily. It has always been difficult to get anything on the Tri Delts. Sleuths of unusual ability have attempted to shadow them, but without avail. Suddenly, as from a clear sky, one of the girls produced a shadow all her own. (Ask the glass door in Van Wye's room.) Oh, Boy! It was worth waiting for. One of the S. A. E. gang won a large bet from another man who didn't have any money, by getting a date with a Tri Delt. He didn't exactly win the bet—he earned it. A number of the girls have been quite ill this winter; there were several cases of lead-poisoning, probably due to the close proximity of the Beta loving-cup of commerce. They've all recovered, and have decided to charge it to experience and to let it go at that.

Kappa Delta

Things are looking up. One of the older girls is reported to be engaged, so in the course of eighteen or twenty years another pledge may be gathered in. The other organizations may well look to the Kappa Delts' methods of preserving internal harmony. When the girls disagree, they flip a coin to decide which of the two is right.

Kappa Alpha Theta

The Thetas, as they are sometimes called, weren't always Thetas. Never mind what they were—we'll keep that quiet. The fact is, that they were thoroughly dedicated to aloofness, as far as the nationality was concerned, and they got by, as the Tri Delts didn't bother them particularly. One day, however, someone slipped a pill into their unsuspecting Java, and the dear girls were part of a great organization.

The protests of a few who later awoke availed nothing, and their former freedom and abandon were but memories. As an outfit the Thetas are a pretty clean bunch—they haven't finished telling how they cleaned up this year. Let 'em go to it—it was a long time coming. Although their Freshmen are much to be esteemed and somewhat sought after, the older girls seem to be much concerned, not to say worried over the fact that the Freshmen are seldom invited by the stronger sex to dances or other athletic contests. Rome wasn't built in one semester, so give them time—say ten years at hard labor. Some few years ago a budding Theta was expelled for engaging in conversation with a Phi Delt. Another was booted for attending a Beta crawl. Perhaps Messrs. Fassett and Knorr can explain the changes in the times—we can't.

Chi Omega

They have changed; ever since Dot Poysell came in, and the custom of summer camping grew up. Time was when they were saints—shades of Evelyn Enneking!—but all good things come to a finis. As we were saying, Dot blew in, straight from Ireland, but they say she has renounced all claim to that name and is now looking forward to next summer's camp at Low Sandy Beach. Speaking of Low Sandy reminds us that Eleanor Finke was there last year. She said that one evening Mary Kramer threw June bugs in the Delta Zeta soup, so the D. Z.'s pooched on the Chi O.'s for a meal, and the Chi O.'s, being saintly and believing in an eye for an eye, thereupon came down to see the D. Z.'s the next evening, and incidentally to warm themselves. That was after the Sig Alphas had visited the vicinity and during their playful antics destroyed all the timber, much like a gang of young elephants in a bamboo thicket, causing a scarcity of fire wood. The Chi O.'s are a hospitable crowd—especially in Pan, where they hold the record for long-winded discussions; but Edna Pflieger in particular is a friendly creature; she always loads that Cadillac with a crowd of one, a six-foot model of the House of Kuppenheimer.

Kappa Kappa Gamma

As Carolyn says, these mystic symbols stand for the motto: "Kiss Me, Kid, G'wan." The younger Sig Alphas say there ain't no sich animal, but who respects the judgment of a Sig Alph, especially a young one? The Kappas, as usual, seem to have grabbed off a bunch easy to gaze upon, but innately unsuspecting. And, as usual, some of them made their grades. The Kappas' stand on the prohibition question, and it is quite certain that they would have favored ratification, but for Pete Morris' dissenting vote. It really is a shame that the Juvenile Protective Association, as the upperclass Kappas may rightfully be called, has been unable to control their affections to themselves. Marian did all that she could to keep the straight-and-narrow populated, but Marian isn't a physical giant—and that's what's needed.

Delta Zeta

This organization sprang from an evanescent nothing, and up to date hasn't retrograded. No, indeed! As time passes in its eternal cycle, more and more do we believe that the Delta Zeta Chapter is not only extant at Varsity, but thriving withal. In fact, we've absotively seen a Delta Zeta, two of 'em, frantically searching for the rest of the chapter, who was found in the Commons, placidly consuming macaroni and hash while she frowned disapprovingly upon the amorous flirtations of an ill-favored Phi-Delt at the next table. The three then assembled and proceeded with the annual chapter meeting, amid loud applause.

Alphi Chi Omega

If you are a "B" student, all well and good; otherwise, you are "blooey," void, N. G., and might as well quit. The girls nabbed the Scholarship championship last year, as they are thinking of petitioning Phi Beta Kappa and Zeta Beta Tau. They can not afford

The University of Cincinnati

Comprises the following departments:

The Graduate School

For advanced study in non-professional courses, leading to the degree of Master of Arts after one or two years of resident study and of Doctor of Philosophy after three years of resident study and the presentation of a satisfactory thesis.

The McMicken College of Liberal Arts

Offers many undergraduate courses for students seeking liberal culture or preparation for professional study.

The regular Liberal Arts classes have been extended to cover five evenings in the week. Thirty-three courses are offered.

External classes of college grade are given in the afternoons in libraries and public school buildings.

The College for Teachers

Offers professional programs, including practice teaching in the Cincinnati Public Schools, which lead to degrees or diplomas, and to state certificates for teaching in elementary and high schools, and for teaching kindergarten, physical education, and commercial subjects. Courses are also offered to teachers who are candidates for higher degrees.

The Department of Home Economics (formerly the School of Household Arts) offers courses for teachers of home economics, for dietitians, and for institutional managers. The Department of Vocational Education trains teachers for the trades and industries. Both of these departments receive state and federal aid under the Smith-Hughes Act of Congress.

The College of Medicine

Offers a four-year course leading to the degree of M. D.

A six-year combined course in the University leads to the degrees of B. S. and M. D.

The Cincinnati General Hospital, the Tuberculosis Hospital, and the College Dispensary afford unequalled clinical facilities.

The School of Nursing and Health provides a three-year course leading to the diploma of graduate nurse. A combined collegiate and professional course of five years leads to a Bachelor of Science degree, as well as to the diploma of graduate nurse.

The College of Engineering and Commerce

Regular and co-operative courses are offered in chemical, civil, electrical, mechanical and metallurgical engineering; also, a co-operative course in commerce and administration. A co-operative course in commerce for women is announced to begin September, 1920.

Evening courses are offered in accountancy, marketing, advertising, salesmanship, traffic management, commercial law, finance and business administration.

The College of Law

The Cincinnati Law School has been merged into the University and made its College of Law. Two courses are offered. One of three years leading to the degree of LL. B.; the other a six-year combined course leading to the degrees of A. B. and LL. B.

The Astronomical Observatory

Research in astronomy, courses in astronomy for students, and demonstrations for citizens and pupils of the schools.

The Library

Separate building with reading rooms, seminary rooms, etc. Contains 114,228 bound volumes.

Sarvis claims they use their brains to advantage, as they have concocted the best little formula for home brew on the market. ### Theta Phi Alpha

This is the latest arrival in "Pan." Just a comfortable dozen at present (we just escaped thirteen), but who would want a more promising beginning? Not they! And what a select agglomeration of attractions! For example, just mention Hermie Hoppe, Dottie Jansing, Grace Matthews and Nan Shoenberger, and what more is necessary? And Dottie Stephans—oh! them eye! You never can sometimes always tell, but inside information is that you can safely play this bunch. Their infantile influence already includes a faculty member. ## ELECTION WON BY DEFAULT

Gentlemen Refuse to Run Against Lady Opponent.

Elections were held last Thursday for a successor to Mr. Howard E. Stapleton, in the job of U. C. General Overseer, Manager and Chief of Detectives. Candidates nominated were Mr. Herbert Thompson Leyland, Miss Helen Brown, Mr. Gordon Miller and Mr. Robert Thayer. Mr. Leyland, Mr. Miller and Mr. Thayer withdrew their names, expressing their natural reluctance to run against Miss Brown, who was so well suited for the position. Miss Brown therefore won by default, and was receiving hearty congratulations.

Opposition to Men Club

The officers of this club, which has long existed sub rosa at this University, are as follows:

Mary Paddack, President.
Dorothy Sisson, Vice-President.
Jean Robinson, Secretary.
Miriam Crouse, Treasurer.

At the first meeting Miss Sisson read a paper on "Why We Hate Men—Until We Have a Date." This aroused great excitement, owing to Miss Sisson's recent experience with the editor of the News. At her suggestion, seconded by Miss Mary Barrett, Dr. Shipherd and Mr. Cooper were both invited to join the society.

The Club, with its worthy purpose, promised to be a great success, although the impartiality of Mr. Cooper nearly broke up its ranks. But with the coming of the first of January, 1920, and its wonderful opportunities for man-haters and dates, the members unanimously voted to disband. It is reported that three of the Club are already engaged.

Strawberry Sundae a la Vache.

On Thursday, April 15, a horrible accident occurred in the University lunchroom. Miss Winifred Zettel, a popular Junior, overturned a glass of buttermilk into the strawberry ice cream. The waiter, Mr. John Winslow, showed great presence of mind in continuing to serve ice cream under the title of "Strawberry Sundae a la Vache."

TELEGRAM MYSTERY

SOLVED AT LAST

Message to Snooze Office Reveals

Truth

Miss Fillmore Reported To Be

Contemplating Law Suit

This morning, at one-five o'clock, the Snooze Office was aroused by the appearance of a man who waved a lantern outside the window and called, "Fillmore, Fillmore!" Miss Fillmore, who was hard at work reviewing poems for the Robert Lee Straus Prize, Jr., rushed to the window in her fright, and claimed the telegram. Before he would give it to her, the messenger demanded, and received, twenty-five cents, after which he became one with the shadows of the night.

This incident is similar in its circumstances to one which occurred last year, when Miss Fillmore was elected to a responsible position on the staff of a rival publication. When Cal Crim had failed to find the senders of that message, and others of a similar type, the lady appealed to us, and a Snooze sleuth was soon snooping smoothly on the trail. Due to his judicious watchful waiting policies, the senders made a misstep and sent the telegram which Miss Fillmore received last night. The Snooze Sleuth had no difficulty in deducing the names of the perpetrators of the out-rage.

We herewith reproduce the telegram: Miss Hilda Fillmore,
Care University Snooze,
University of Cincinnati.

Congratulations! Trio, saturated with celebrations, will relent. Western Union mistook perfectly good "F" for "L," which naturally threw you off the track. Also (no bouquets, of course) you had the best combination of—er—imaginings in Varsity against you. So good of you to fix up such lovely alibis for all of us. For additional information see Frank, Henriette or Buddie. But—we insist on still being well and happy!

L. H. B.

When Miss Fillmore was interviewed by a Snooze reporter she said: "Yes, it is true that I am contemplating a law suit. No one will ever appreciate the mental strain I went through trying to discover the culprits. Also, the agony caused by the fact that three people knew something I did not know was dreadful—unbearable!"

How the Faculty Spent Their ### Vacations

Dr. Parker spent the holidays very quietly with his family. He won six loving cups in a shooting gallery, witnessed three hangings, and acted as pall-bearer for four friends who died of delirium tremens.

Dean Burris likewise spent his vacation at home. His pleasure was somewhat marred by an unfortunate experience. While motoring down Clifton Avenue, he was arrested by an officer of the law, who charged him with speeding, and with demolishing a curbstone at the corner of Clifton and Ludlow. Dean Burris paid his fine and persuaded the officer to release him by promising to mend the curbstone at his earliest convenience.

Dr. Tawney spent his holidays in putting the final touches to his latest book, "The Advisability of Living on Five Meals a Day Instead of Three." The book is divided into three sections: (1) Milk Toast as a Basis of Diet. (2) Milk Toast as an Aesthetic Experience. (3) The Value of Milk Toast in Building Brain Cells.

Dr. McGrane has received a medal from the Teachers' Speed Union, for breaking all existing records for speedy speech. Before a committee of judges, Dr. McGrane said 7,459,395,205 words in five minutes; three stenographers died of exhaustion, and the dictagraph broke. The nearest competitor, Mr. C. D. Stevens, says he bears no ill-feeling, and announces his intention of becoming a telephone operator.

Whose Who and How Much

Stewart S. Cooper.

First made his appearance as campaign manager for The Administration. Was so successful that they wished the News on him. As far as is known, is absolutely unsusceptible to the blandishments of the fair sex. (We didn't know him when we wrote this! We take it all back!)

Hilda M. Fillmore.

The lady who manages the News, emotes for the Drama Circle, and writes free verse in her spare moments. Has a yearly contract with Robert Lee Straus for the Straus Poetry Prize.

Helen Knight.

Our charming Women's League president, who combines business and Ralph so well.

Sylvia Leubbert.

Oh, you beautiful doll. The answer to that touching little ditty, "Why Men Go Tri Delt."

Walter Rothman.

That blasé "so indifferinck" young man, with the red hair cut convict style. You'd never guess girls mean a thing in his young life, but—appearances are often deceptive.

Jim Cunningham.

That rosy-cheeked, innocent-looking kid, on whose blond head innumerable Freshmen have called down curses.

Ben Frankel.

The Roscoe Arbuckle of Varsity's dramatic lights.

Vera Stall.

Very good, Vera—the sillytist. She dances, sings, draws, and has survived two years of kindergarten training.

Frank Biddle.

No Varsity Vodvil complete without him.

Dorothy Sisson.

Dot holds so many offices that it's useless to try and enumerate them all. Perhaps the one the Freshmen know her best in is Chairman of the Woman's Vigilance Committee.

Bill Huesch.

Has so many girls he has to keep a card index, so he can remember the ones he's called on during the last year.

Esther Sechrist.

The dainty and demure president of the Y. W. C. A., who is also the best "vamp" in captivity.

Elaine De Beck.

Hold Monthly Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Sh-ph-rd Rav-ng S-c-ty was held in the English I. office, on April 1, 1920. Among those present were Miss Mary Barrett, Miss Elizabeth McDonald, Miss Elaine De Beck, Miss Mary Ann Ries and Miss Salomea Neumark. The resignation of Miss Hilda Fillmore, former president of the society, was accepted by the vice-president, Miss Barrett, with noisy manifestations of emotion. "A slender blonde woman," said Miss Barrett, "has ever been my bête noire."

A motion was made and carried to initiate Miss Dorothy Barnett into the society at once. The candidate read an English I. theme which she had written in eulogy of the club's patron. It was a triumph of the pen, and the consensus of opinion was that it ably proved the candidate's eligibility.

After the business meeting Miss Ries and Miss Neumark sang a duet entitled "Anna Banana." The vice-president broke down and wept, and had to be carried out in installments.

Acknowledgment

The editor regrets that it was not possible to get the list of the Committee which picked out the star beauties in the "Varsity Activities" book. But we feel that we cannot allow their work to go unmentioned. It was a dangerous job. Each committeeman took his life in his hands when he cast his vote. Only men unselfishly interested in the good of the Annual would have consented to serve. We wish publicly to thank these men and to extend to them best wishes for a speedy recovery—after the Cincinnati comes out. The Committee was as follows: Bob Thayer, Chairman; Stewart Cooper, Jim Cunningham, Harwood Garretson, Herbert Leyland, Charles M. Diserens, Samuel Bailey, and Professor Wilson for the Faculty.

Boy, Page the Janitor!

During the High School basket ball tournament, it was thought that the Crawfordsville team should have some extra sleep on Saturday morning as they were to play several games that day. Accordingly, Emerson Tull, our worthy debater and Civil(ized) Engineer, took the boys back to the Debate Room for an extra snooze. He gave them his key to the room so that they could lock themselves in. On Thursday after the tournament a letter came to Coach Chambers from Crawfordsville, saying: "Dear Sir: Please give the enclosed key to the janitor. He let us in the room and we forgot to give him his key when we left."

Carrol—"Mumaw, how about that mill location?"

Me.

Frank R. Byers.

The longest auto-biography ever written by one so young, consisting of ten volumes, with an additional synopsis of five volumes and an appendix of three volumes, has just been let out in library form, under the title of "Me," by the imminent author, actor and autocrat, Frank R. Byers. Among the chapters, the most noticeable are the following: "What I Think of Me," "Freshmen I Have Flunked," "Thetas I Have Loved," "Hermione Puffenhutter," "Dramas I Have Dreamed," "Tempers I Have Tampered With" and "The Virtue of Silence," the latter extending over 1,584 pages.

The entire set sells for $1.25 gross. Autographed, de luxe edition, $2.00.

Giggles of Gussies.

Mary Barrett.

Miss Mary Barrett, the famous Irish comedienne, the rival of Eva Tanguay and her "I don't care," who for many years has been acting hard, has quit working and is writing plays. Her latest book of dramas is called "Giggles of Gussie," a sequel to "Tiny Tillie's Titter." Miss Barrett is considering re-entering the world of the theater in a play whose theme is "Avoirdupois—How to Carry It Around."

Wholesale, 49c; retail, $.50.

Love Ballads of a Senior.*

Frank Biddle.

A collection of love ballads, for baritone voices, has been written and sung by Frank Biddle. Two ballads especially are attracting attention. One is called "The Dark Lady of My Sonnets," dedicated to Alf-r-t- My-rs, and the other to Esth-r S-chr-st, is called "Two Little Bright Brown Eyes." As one thinks each time the leading man takes the leading lady into his arms that he really loves her, so do we believe each time that Frank means what he says. But if he does, would he say it to two of them?

These ballads sell for 15c apiece, or two for a quarter, at Woolworth's.

*Now out of print. The author married neither of the above-mentioned ladies.

Y. W. MEETING

Is Scene of Great Excitement.

Miss Myers Faints.

The Y. W. cabinet held its triennial meeting on Wednesday at 4 p. m., in the Women's Building, with the president, Miss Sechrist, presiding. Miss Alfarata Myers was present. Naturally, she received universal congratulations, and was the center of a surprised and admiring throng.

Her ever-witty tongue moved constantly, producing one continuous stream of clever and telling epigrams. It is believed that Miss Myers became suddenly overcome with the heat of the room, for at the chance mention of Mr. Elwood Haas, famous basketball star, she abruptly stopped speaking and stared into space, with mouth agape and eyes aglaze.

All business ceased at once; the president rushed with water to the aid of the stricken one. Miss Myers recovered from her trance. Looking around in bewilderment on the sympathetic group gathered about her, she slowly inquired:

"Oh—was I expected to say something?"

MODERN DRAMA EXAM

Obtained by Snooze

The Snooze, at great expense and peril, has obtained (through bribing the confidential secretary of an eminent professor) the examination which will be given in Aspects of Modern Drama. If you are able to answer all the questions perfectly, you will undoubtedly receive a C—. A's and B's are no longer fashionable in the best circles.

ENGLISH 24 EXAM.

June, 1920.

1. Compare Hauptmann.
2. In what respects do the plays of Ibsen and those of George M. Cohan differ and in what respects are they similar? Be specific, illustrating with extracts from the plays.
3. Describe as to color and material Lady Windemere's pink feather fan.
4. Draw a pattern of the costumes worn by "Ghosts."
5. Locate as to author and play, and briefly, but extensively, characterize the following: John Smith, Whiffenpoof, Schnitzelbanque, Mary, Antonovitch Skoznick Dunkhanovsky, a Policeman, Francis, Frank, Frances, Grodsky, Jean, Buddiebluntschli.

The Ukestra

The Ukestra is unusually good this year. Charlotte Walker and Dorothy Barnett can both play, an accident which has never before happened in the history of the organization.

History Club

The History Club has been hard hit Since all those men have entered it.

PLEDGING

Attracts Masculine Attention.

An interested crowd of men was noticed today, April 13, gazing intently into the Pre-Medic Club room; in fact, going without their lunches to do so. Careful and thorough investigation by a Snooze reporter disguised as a table, revealed the fact that Mystic 13 was pledging Edna Pflieger, Ruth McGregor, Dorothy Huff, Alfarata Myers, Bertha Rogatsky, Henrietta Brady, Dorothy Poysell, Louise Scherl, Winifred Zettel, Russel Ransom and Sue Wilson.

VAST SENSATION

Created by Miss Knight

Last Monday Miss Helen Knight created a vast sensation by appearing in her 8:30 class with a rippling Marcel wave in her well-known auburn Elsie Ferguson. Miss Knight is now open to congratulations from her many friends upon the success of the experiment.

UNFAIR EXAM

Skillfully Stopped by Students.

Last Friday the psychology room was the scene of a student strike. Dr. Breese had attempted to quiz the class on an old chapter after they had taken up a new one.

Just as bloodshed seemed imminent, Miss Ida Koch, who is famous for her tact and diplomacy, and who won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1919, stepped into the breach. She made her way through the ranks of the combatants. "Now, Dr. Breese," she said, assuming a coaxing manner, "please don't quiz us on Reason. We have forgotten Reason since you've given us Affection."

Real Idealism

It was a dark and stormy night. Helen sat on the front steps, shaded from the fierce rays of the electric light by the spreading leaves of the oleander in its green tub. She sighed pensively as she munched a bag of peanuts. From time to time she rose and gazed anxiously down the dark street.

Hark! A bell twinkles in the distance. "Whiz-Whiz"—the sound rushes through the still night air. Helen, tastefully attired in a henna pink tea-gown, trimmed in violet ribbons, rises as Ed dashes silently up on his steaming bike. Round the house he rides, and parks his fiery steed against the dog house.

"Fourteen cents snatched from the maw of the Traction Trust!" he cries, clasping her hands effusively. "Two more nights, my girl, and we can go and see Theda Bara!"

Oh, Pshaw!

One of the characteristics of the Drama Circle (as of all circles) is that there is no end to it—no end to the group as it grows and changes from year to year, no end to the work in producing a play (ask Mr. Byers), and however often one may swear off there is no escaping the ogling leer of the footlights.

Last year's cast of "Arms and the Man" were so well satisfied with their first performance of the play that they insisted upon repeating it "by request" (Oh, Shaw!) and the innocent and, as yet, unsuspecting Freshmen supplied with free tickets and threatened by the Vigilance Committee (the biggest part of which was acting in the play) had to suffer.

But those who merely witnessed the performance "don't know the half of it." As announced by the curtain at the Grand, drama "Holds as 'twere a mirror up to nature"—the Drama Circle holds as 'twere a mirror up to actors. Intimate glimpses of reality are afforded any one who will faithfully attend rehearsals—real revelations of character, and whim, and weakness. Such a faithful attendant might observe, for example, that a tall blonde may keep even a Fassett from rehearsals, that "the youngsters all fall for" Lilymae, that Mlle. la Presidente does not always go home alone, that as wholly wholesome a person as Miriam thinks we should have an occasional "good time"—life being short—and even on street cars eats hot-dog sandwiches from corner saloons. He might sometimes think that by mistake he had come to a rehearsal of the Glee Club rather than one of the Drama Circle when giggling school girls all but make one lose one's temper, when "Coco-cola" and "Fullofpopolis" are roared across the stage and the walls of the auditorium reverberate with Frankel's uncontrolled and uncontrollable glee. Indeed, he might learn much about the so-called "artistic temperament"—or even of the scorn of a red-haired waitress at Child's. He might hear Hilda say from personal knowledge that Fassett is a more experienced lover than Fuldner. Faint whisperings of "peerless" lovers, of "higher love" and of chocolate creams will float about and mingle with the scandal and gossip of the green room. Such is the power of the dramatic limelight.

Exchanges.

"And when I kissed her, I smelled tobacco on her lips."

"You object to kissing a woman who smokes?"

"No; but she doesn't smoke!"—Jack-o'-Lantern.

She fell with a light sigh into his arms. Her head tilted backwards and their lips met. She turned her head and spoke:

"You understand, don't you, Jack, that I've never done a thing like this before?" she asked, anxiously.

He, thinking of what has just happened: "Yes, but what an awful lot of experience you must have inherited from someone."—Punch Bowl.

On Thursday, April 15, Gamma Upsilon held an April shower for the benefit of one of its members, Miss Gladys Busch. Among the many beautiful and useful gifts received by the fair lady were a chest of silver from one of the professors, a watch from Miss Wiley, a fully equipped kitchen cabinet from Miss Robinson, and a washing outfit from Miss Neumark. Each gift was accompanied by a verse or poem, appropriate to the occasion, and expressive of the great esteem in which Miss Busch is held by her sorority sisters and friends.

The very pleasant party was broken up, after pretzels had been served as far as they would go, and at the end of it all the main question was left unanswered:

THE CRYSTOLA PHONOGRAPH

Made in Cincinnati

At Last a Phonograph that Reproduces All Records with a Natural Distinctness of Tone

The Crystola is the only Phonograph built today with a view to scientific facts of tone reproduction. By eliminating all false and confusing vibrations within the machine, a quality of tone is reproduced that is natural and free from foreign noises and marvelously clear, distinct and articulate.

Exclusive Crystola Features

The Ball-bearing Needle-finger follows freely all the minutest indentations of the record groove, reproducing all the rich Tone Colorings and Niceties of Expression.

Ribbed construction of the Sensitive Microphone Diaphragm gives maximum pressure to the Tone Vibrations and eliminates false confusing ripples in these vibrations.

The Non-Vibrating Mirror-Plate Resonator prevents any spending of original energy and volume of vibration by its rigidity and prevents all false and confusing ripples in the diaphragm vibrations.

Conductor: Hey you! You only gimme six cents!

Dr. M. (searching wildly): I-I-er-hum-the sewage system in Egypt is 2,000 miles long—.

Conductor: Come across! You can't get by like that on my car!

Dr. M. (turning pockets inside out): 6,123,968 babies die each before the age of two months—.

Conductor: Gimme that copper or off you go! No rebates made to nuts!

Dr. M.: "Really—I—I am very much afraid I have but six cents. But please let me ride. I have a date to deliver a lecture on "The Dangers of Vitiated Air."

Conductor (aiming his coin-belt at the Doctor's cranium): G-g-git-t-t.

(Enter, skipping, the Fair Pupil.)

F. P. (extending a copper): Don't mind that horrid man, Dr. Morrie,—here's a penny! I always said I'd do something nice for you because you gave me a C in Hygiene.

Dr. M. (stepping to the front of stage, and becoming lyric): I am a starving Hygiene Prof,

In debt and indigent;
Thrice blessings on you, lady fair,
For lending me that cent!

Oh, maiden fair, who share your wealth
With those who haven't any,
May beauty, wisdom, friends and health

Life's Darkest Moment

When you see your girl dancing cheek to cheek with your rival after you have been stuck with one of the chaperones for the last three dances.

As It Usually Is

Mabel—Gee, ain't there rotten spirit here at the University?

Dotty—I should say there is.

Mabel—Just for an example there is Eddie, the most popular man here in school, and he took an outside girl to the Junior Prom and a lot of Varsity girls stayed at home.

Dotty—Sure is an awful spirit.

Etc., etc., etc., for half an hour.

Dotty—By the way, who did you take to the Woman's League dance?

Mabel—Oh, some feller that don't come to school. He is a sales manager of something downtown. Has a big machine and everything.

Ralph: "My heart is on fire with love for you, my very soul's aflame."

Helen (just a trifle bored): "Papa will put you out."

On a Settee in a Dark Corner of the Hallway

Once upon a midnight merry, while we billowed chic and cheery
With our hands entangled and our hearts so near as ne'er before,
While we cuddled, gently cooing, suddenly there was something doing
As of some one faintly creeping, creeping from a chamber door—

Alas, it was, and something more.

Ah, distinctly I remember, it was in the warm September
And each separate stealthy footstep sounded ghostlike on the stair;
Frantically I planned my flight and vividly I saw my plight, and
On my brow stole looks of terror as I hid behind a chair,—
Looks of terror for the maiden, for the mild and mushy maiden
Whom I shall see—ah, tell me where?

Presently my soul grew stronger, hesitating then no longer:
“Sir,” said I of father, “truly your forgiveness I implore,
But the fact is I was spoonin’, we were lost in sweet communin’
And alas, you came too soon in—still I hope you won’t be sore?”
Here I made a dash Titanic, in a panic, for the door.

I felt his boot and nothing more.

To the fatal settee turning, all my slats within me burning,
Soon again I felt the boot-tip, somewhat fiercer than before.
“Though thy beard be quite unshaven, thou,” “I said, “are sure no craven,
Bearded, gaunt and booted parent, wandering from thy nightly snore;
Tell me, may I woo her on thy oaken, polished parlor floor?”

Quoth the father: “Want some more?”

“Be that word our sign of parting, Man or Fiend,” I shrieked, upstarting;
“Get thee back, beneath thy covers, and thy night’s Plutonian snore;
Leave no more marks as token, leave my hapless bones unbroken,
Leave thy wrathful words unspoken; cease to mop with me the floor!”
Here his boot, relentless landing, lifted me clear out the door.

Oh, ye gods, but how he swore!

And the father still is sitting, ceaselessly, while time goes flitting,
Sitting on the oaken settee, just beside the parlor door,
And his eyes have all the seeming of a demon darkly dreaming,
While the moonlight o’er him streaming casts his shadow on the floor;
And my soul from out the shadow menacing upon the floor

From his boots’ belligerent shadow
Shall be lifted never more!

AN INTERVIEW WITH A BIOLOGIST

We called upon Dr. Harris M. Benedict the other afternoon. The famous biologist was seated on a sycamore stump, watching the sunset. In one hand he balanced a glass of iced tea, at which he glanced tenderly from time to time. Disregarding his offer of half of the stump, we plunged at once into our interview.

"What is your hobby?" we asked.

"Teaching my calf to drink out of a bucket, and luring helpless students into the Botany department," he replied, promptly.

"Your most cherished possession?"

"Oh, my—my Jersey cow," he said, in a voice shaking with emotion.

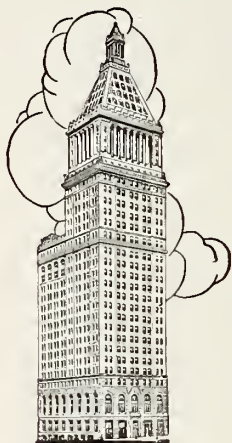

"What is your chief aversion?"

"I have three," he responded, his benevolent, kindly face clouding with hatred. "They are onions, female colleges and the mineral kingdom." At this the atmosphere became so threatening that we hastened to interpose soothingly:

"To what do you attribute your popularity among the students?" The professor pondered:

"To my unfailing practice of looking the other way and not hearing when they call me Benny by mistake; also, to my sweet and sunny disposition, due to the most careful upbringing; also, to—here he stealthily took a sip of tea—"Oh, My Gosh, I forgot to put sugar in this."

We coughed loudly, and withdrew on tiptoe.

Parkology

Sitting on the campus,
Fair ones come to vamp us,
Wisdom wings away upon a maiden's fleeting smiles.
Evening found us nightly
With damsel sweet and sprightly,
Bewitching us, bewildering us, with all a woman's wiles.

Studies quite forgotten,
Grades were often rotten.
Added lore of Life and Love repaid a thousand-fold.
Though from knowledge turning,
Our hearts were ever learning;
Wisdom's coin is countable, but Love's is never told.

Gleaming golden tresses;
Goal of my caresses;
Languorous smile that beckons from beguiling lips of red;
Intoxicating kisses;
My sportive spirit misses
You more than all the other joys of summer moments fled.

Once more con amore
We stage the world-old story;
Eros lured us nightly on to keep the lover's tryst.
Love intoxicated,
We lingered all elated,
Way down along the lake drive, where the moonlight woos the mist.

A Lament

The melancholy days have come,
The saddest of the year.
They've banished good old rock and rye,
And murdered lager beer.

The barkeep's job's a useless one,
The shakers idle stand;
An arid draught has spread across
Our own, our native land.

The siphon's but an empty jest,
A fizz without a kick;
And egg-nog's gone with all the rest.
Oh, Lord! who threw that brick?

But a pilgrimage has started out
For Cuba's far-off shore,
Where still are heard loud-popping corks,
And Bacchus reigns once more.

Good folks, please bear with me awhile,
And hear my frenzied plea.
Who'll loan me boat and railroad fare,
And end my misery?

The College of Commerce was organized in the year 1912 to succeed the old Cincinnati College of Finance and Accounting. For a number of years it has been well attended and served a very important function in the training of many of our business men and women who are now actively engaged in many prominent business enterprises of today. The early part of the year, 1919, the College of Commerce became a part of the College of Engineering, and is now known as the Department of Engineering and Commerce. During the current year a number of students were enrolled in the regular Co-operative Commerce Courses, which marks a new era in its history. The enrollment for the year was over three hundred students; classes were held at the Cincinnati Law School.

The Commerce Club was organized in 1914 for the purpose of promoting a closer fellowship and more intimate relations amongst the students of the College of Commerce. It is purely a social organization and monthly meetings are held where different topics of interest are brought up for discussion; prominent men deliver up-to-the-minute talks on present-day matters, followed by refreshments and a general good time. Election of officers takes place at the end of each year for the subsequent fiscal year.

A. W. Tischler.....	President
Leroy Wilson.....	Vice-President
Oscar Droste.....	Secretary
Carl Martin.....	Treasurer

Founded in 1904 at the New York University, it rapidly spread to other leading colleges until at the present date there are close on to twenty Chapters represented in the national order.

Eta Chapter was formed in 1912 at the University of Cincinnati, mainly through the efforts of Professor John C. Duncan, and today represents the live active spirit in the College of Commerce. The past year has been a most successful one in the annals of the fraternity, and the following men have been taken in its membership at the local Chapter:

Fred. Fielman	J. W. Knopf
Glenn Johnson	C. LeRoy Lohn
Charles J. Keller	Edwin P. Pierle

The ideals of the organization are to create greater interests in the field of commerce and to promote the welfare of the student entering this field of activity. The meetings consist of discussions and talks of interest along this line, together with social fellowship and fraternalism.

Too much cannot be said for Cordovan leather. You know it wears and wears, and Polishes to a rich, lustrous color.

Note the lines. Good style is indicated everywhere.

L'Envoi

When June's last lesson is ended,
And U's last professor has frowned,
And all the exams are completed,
And the grades are all handed around,
We'll then turn our backs on the campus,
And bid ev'rybody adieu,
Until September's sharp jingling
Of bells pulls us back to Old U.

And those who have failed shall be joyous,
O'er oodles of F's and of E's;
And those who have passed shall be gloomy,—
Ashamed of their A's and their B's;
For those who have lost can be idle,
With no shining record to keep;
But those who have won must go labor,
To prove, "As ye sow, ye shall reap!"

And only the bad shall be happy;
They'll crave neither lucre nor name;
The good, though, shall find themselves driven
To striving for money and fame.
But each to the life of his choosing!
For each, as we've often heard tell,
Commands his own fate! And whichever
Ye choose, mates, we'll bid ye fond Farewell!
